Blonde Film Star Found Dead In Bed

Sexy Glamor Girl Apparently Takes Overdose Of Drug

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Blonde and beautiful Marilyn Monroe, a glamorous symbol of the gay, exciting life of Hollywood, died tragically Sunday.

Her body was found nude in bed, a probable suicide. She was 36.

The long-troubled star clutched a telephone in one hand. An empty bottle of sleeping pills was nearby.

Miss Monroe, fired from her last movie, had been in seclusion for weeks at her rambling Spanish-style bungalow in Brentwood. At midnight her housekeeper, Eunice Murray, noticed a light in the actress' bedroom.

The light was still on at 3 a.m., and Mrs. Murray got no answer when she called to her mistress and knocked on the door. It was locked. Alarmed, she called Miss Monroe's physician, Dr. Ralph Gresson.

He arrived and broke a bedroom window with a fireplace poker. He entered the room and found Miss Monroe in bed, face down. He said later she appeared to be dead, but he called another physician, Dr. Hyman Engelberg. The latter pronounced her dead and summoned police at 4:20 a.m.

No Notes Found

They told police Sgt. Joseph Clements that she was in bed nude, the covers pulled up to her neck. In her hand was a telephone, which was off the hook. On the table next to the bed were numerous bottles, including an empty container of nembatal, a drug to induce sleep.

Police said no notes were found. A coroner's representative said an early investigation indicated suicide.

Shortly thereafter, an autopsy was held, but county Coroner Theodore Curphey said results were inconclusive.

Miss Monroe's attorney, Milton Ruden, appeared at the home and said he had spoken to her Friday night to discuss a meeting Monday.

"She seemed in good enough spirits," he said. "Naturally she felt very bad that she was not able to finish the movie, 'Something's Got to Give.'"

We were still negotiating to resume the picture and she was happy about that possibility."

The actress had been depressed since she was fired from the film in June by the studio where she rose to fame, 20th Century-Fox.

In a curious throwback to her early fame as a calendar girl, she had performed a nude swimming scene for the film.

Studio Sued For $2 Million

The studio dismissed her and sued for $2 million damages. It claimed she was malingering. She said she had been ill. Arriving late, sometimes by hours, was not uncommon to Marilyn. She always before had been forgiven for tardiness.

The end of her life was marked inauspiciously. A coroner's representative covered her slim body with a simple blue cotton blanket and put it in the cargo space of his blue station wagon. He drove to a mortuary in nearby Westwood Village, and later her body

New Soviet Tests Won't Deter U.S. Quest For Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States called Soviet resumption of atmospheric nuclear testing Sunday "a somber episode" but made it clear that a new series will not alter U.S. determination to seek a test ban.

A State Department statement did not touch on the possibility that a new Soviet series might force still another round of aerial blasts by this nation.

But it said: "The urgent problem before the world is not who tests last, but how we can rid the world of nuclear testing once and for all."

The United States is just concluding a series of atmospheric tests prompted by the Soviet tests of last fall, which broke a long, informal moratorium.

Sunday's resumption of Soviet testing came as no surprise since Premier Khrushchev had said he planned more tests as a result of the U.S. series. President Kennedy has said that an analysis of results obtained by the Russians in any new series would determine whether this nation would be forced into another series of its own.

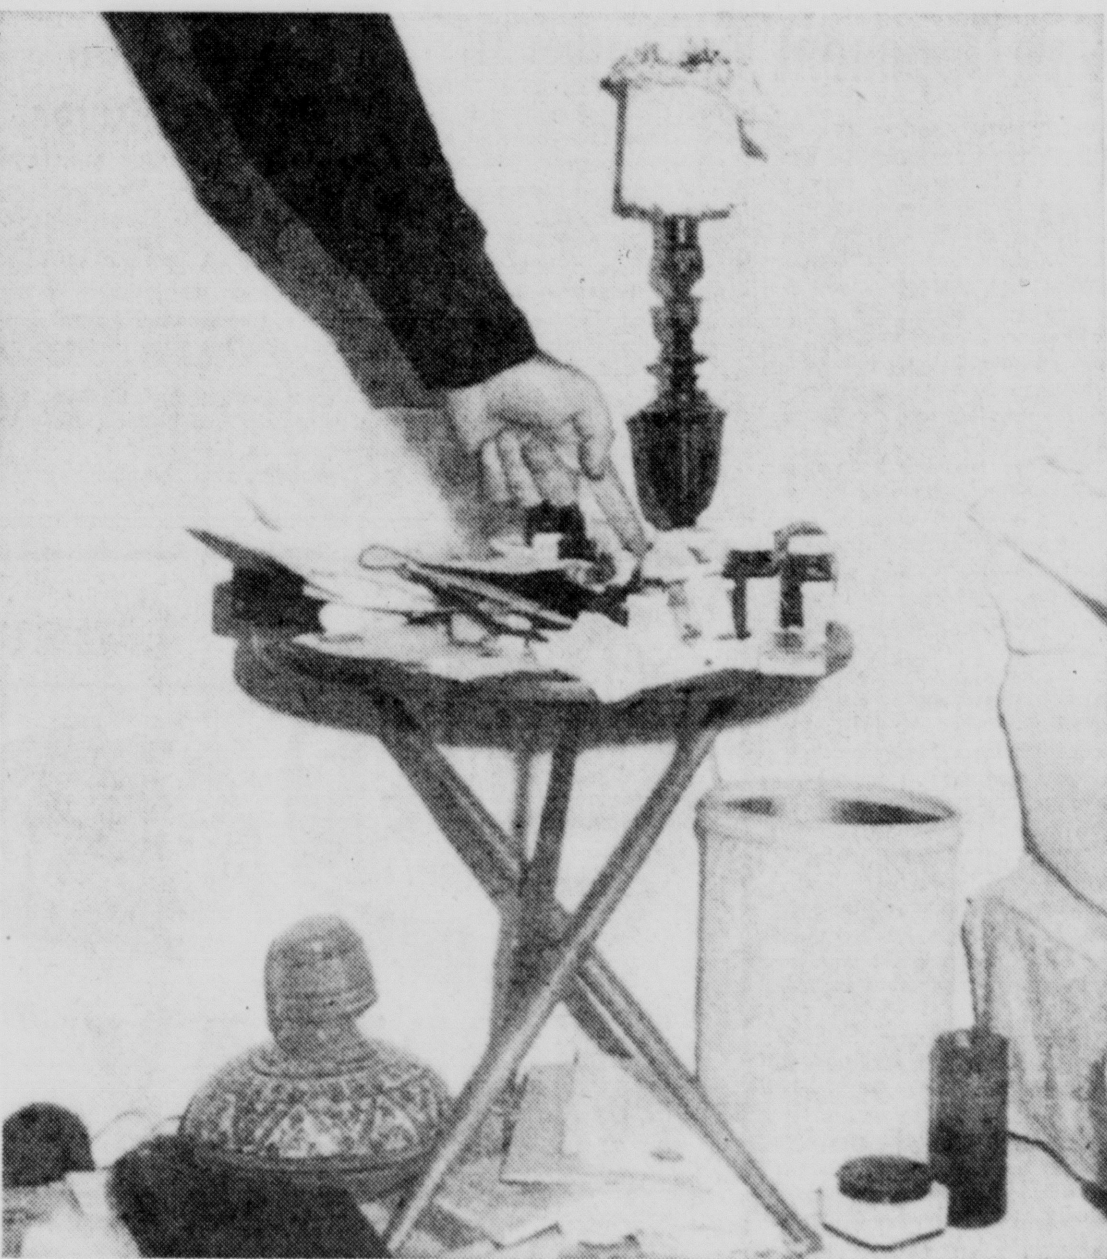

Sunday's statement noted that the latest Soviet testing came just as the United States is preparing to discuss at the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva new methods of detection and verification which might make it possible to shape an effective test-ban treaty.

Medicine Bottles Beside M.M.'s Bed

A police officer points to an assortment of medicine bottles on the nightstand beside the bed (right) where Marilyn Monroe (above) was found dead yesterday. Police said a sleeping pill bottle was empty. The nude body of the blonde and beautiful film star, 36, was discovered after her housekeeper noticed a light in the actress' bedroom and knocked on the door, which was locked. Alarmed, she called Miss Monroe's physician, who entered the room by breaking a window.

Peru Boss Says Election Victor Will Get Office

By BEN F. MEYER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The president of Peru's military government, Gen. Ricardo Perez Godoy, promised Sunday that Peru's 1963 presidential elections will be absolutely impartial and that the winner will get the office.

That point was mentioned by President Kennedy at his news conference last Wednesday as one on which "clear assurances" are desired before the United States recognizes the Peruvian regime which took power rather than accept the results of this year's voting.

The viewpoints of Gen. Perez Godoy were expressed in cable replies to questions submitted by a correspondent in Washington.

In addition to his comments on election plans, Perez Godoy pledged a clean government in Peru, operating on a balanced budget, announced the junta's readiness to join other hemisphere nations in collective action against Communist penetration, and offered continuing friendship to the United States and the other Western democracies.

Diplomatic observers here speculated the general's statements might help clear the atmosphere for U.S. recognition of the junta government.

Finkbines, Seeking Abortion Sanction, Arrive In Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Tired and weary-eyed, Sherri Finkbine came to Sweden on Sunday to seek abortion of the baby she fears may be deformed by the drug thalidomide.

"I am hoping and praying that the Swedish medical men will be able to help me quickly," said Mrs. Finkbine, 30, who failed to get approval for an abortion from a court in her home state of Arizona.

With her schoolteacher husband, Robert, the attractive brunette flew into Stockholm from Copenhagen after a transpolar flight from Los Angeles.

They announced that they will see a Swedish doctor Monday in the first step of a complicated procedure to obtain medical sanction to abort her pregnancy of nearly three months.

"We hope not to have to wait but if necessary we will do it," Mrs. Finkbine said. "We know there is no 100 per cent certainty of being granted an abortion here but at least we think we will get a fair judgment on reasonable medical and not moral grounds, and, after all, several American doctors have strongly supported our case."

Mrs. Finkbine retired at a Stockholm hotel and slept several hours. Her husband, accompanied by reporters, spent more than an hour touring the city.

Finkbine again criticized the publicity that has been given their case. After reports that they would seek an abortion abroad, he said, "some crank, I don't know who," booked tickets in their name for Sweden on Friday, a day before they actually arrived for passage.

He said a friend of the family paid for their trip and their four children are staying with grandparents in the States. "You know," he said, "I am a teacher and my economic situation is not too good."

Mrs. Finkbine, star of a Phoenix children's television program, fears her expected child might be born with a deformation because she took thalidomide in the early stages of her pregnancy. Thalidomide is blamed for thousands of armless and legless babies born in Europe, Australia and Canada.

The Arizona court refused the Finkbines' appeal for a legal abortion, because the only ground on which it could be granted would be if the mother's life were in danger.

Sweden permits abortions under certain conditions. The Royal Medical Board has authorized seven women who took thalidomide to have abortions.

Swedish doctors have strongly supported our case."

JFK Supports Drug Control Amendments

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP)

—President Kennedy is backing a series of amendments to a pending drug control bill to give the government greater power to remove unsafe or ineffectual drugs from the market the summer White House disclosed Sunday.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger announced that the amendments, covering 25 pages of text, were sent to Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., chairman of a judiciary subcommittee which now has the bill.

Under present law the government would have had to go to court and establish a case before it could remove a drug such as thalidomide from the market, once it had been licensed.

Thalidomide, now blamed for deformation of thousands of babies born in Europe, never was licensed in the United States.

The President Saturday approved award of a gold medal and citation to Dr. Frances O. Kelsey, the medical officer of the Food and Drug Administration who refused approval of thalidomide for human use in this country.

The President said in a letter to Eastland that protection of the American people against unsafe and worthless drugs is a source of great concern.

The amendments would restore to the bill provisions which Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., originally proposed, except for some patent controls in his bill. The measures had been redrafted to eliminate many of the controls he proposed.

The amendments also would strengthen factory inspection and manufacturing control requirements of the bill. They also tighten procedures for clearance of new drugs and require higher standards of proof of effectiveness of new drugs.

No wonder she couldn't cope with the shock of instant stardom.

The first time I ever met Marilyn Monroe I knew she would be a big star. She seemed insecure.

That was in 1949. She had been in few walk-on parts in movies and was due for her first big audition—the role of the late Louis Calhern's girl friend in "The Asphalt Jungle."

Possessor of one of the world's most famous figures, she was headed for the interview wearing falsies.

I tried to tell her in a nice way that she looked grotesque—like a chiffonier with the top drawer pulled out.

But Producer Arthur Hornblow

was more direct. He ordered her to remove the artificial padding before continuing with the interview.

"She did," Hornblow recalls, "and displayed a perfect figure that needed no artificial help. She got the part, but I have always thought her appearance in falsies that day was the all-time height of insecurity."

Many have thought that Marilyn's distressing—to studios—habit of showing up late came with the inevitable swelled head of stardom.

Marilyn was just as late when she was a nobody as she was when she became a big star.

Israeli Cabinet Affirms Stand In Soblen Case

El Al Will Fly Spy To Israel Only

JERUSALEM (AP)—The Cabinet stood firm Sunday against permitting an Israeli airliner to fly Dr. Robert A. Soblen from Britain to the United States. His attorney said the convicted spy may be back by Thursday to begin a legal battle to remain in Israel.

A communique issued after a Cabinet meeting declared that an Israeli plane would carry the 61-year-old psychiatrist "back to Israel only and under no circumstances to the United States."

The Cabinet stand reiterated an earlier reply to Britain, which has given Israel's El Al Airline until Wednesday midnight to get the fugitive out of Britain. Under the sentence in the United States for spying for the Soviet Union, Soblen is in London's Brixton Prison.

The Lithuanian-born fugitive skipped $100,000 bail in June and fled to Israel. Israel ejected him July 1 aboard an El Al plane. Just before the plane landed in London he stabbed himself in the stomach and slashed his wrists and has been there since, fighting to stay out of the United States.

Britain's position is that El Al brought Soblen to London and should complete the trip. Israel says Britain has no right to tell El Al what to do.

The communique said the Cabinet agreed that:

1. The original order to eject Soblen from Israel still stands.
2. That in view of the fact that it was an Israeli plane which took Soblen to Britain, the Israel government feels obliged to take him out again if Britain insists on this.
3. That an Israeli plane will take Soblen to Israel only, and under no circumstances to the United States.

The unanimous Cabinet decision was reached after hearing a report by Foreign Minister Golda Meir. It was relayed to British Ambassador Patrick Hancock.

Soblen's Tel Aviv lawyer, Dr. Ari Ankorian, welcomed the Israeli government's "decision to right the wrong which it did to Soblen and not to extradite him to the United States."

Saying Soblen may return by Thursday, Ankorian announced he first will ask Israel authorities not to keep his client under arrest. Ankorian said Soblen has no plans to run away from Israel.

Ankorian then will seek an Israeli Supreme Court order directing Interior Minister Moshe Chaim Shapiro to explain to the high court why Soblen could not be granted immigrant status.

But Heath did not succeed in winning a list of definite guarantees on Commonwealth trade in time for Macmillan to present detailed proposals to the Commonwealth prime ministers conference next month.

Big Nuclear Blast Set Off Over Siberia

U.S. Deplores Test, Estimated To Be In 40-Megaton Range

UPPSALA, Sweden (AP) — The Soviet Union exploded a big nuclear bomb high in the atmosphere Sunday.

Swedish scientists estimated it to be in the 40-megaton range, second only to the Soviet 50-ton bomb set off last fall. A Norwegian scientist said his instruments showed only that it was smaller than that one and U.S. officials would say only that it was "in the megaton range."

The blast was estimated to be in the 20-megaton range by the Japanese Meteorological Agency. Whatever the size, the blast carried out Premier Khrushchev's threat to resume testing in retaliation for U.S. Pacific tests.

Uppsala University's Seismological Institute, which classified the blast as in the range of 40 million tons of TNT, said it occurred at a higher altitude than the Soviet series of 1961, which was climaxed by the superbomb.

"Somber Episode" U.S. Says

Recordings at the institute indicated the test was carried out at the Soviet atomic testing ground on the island of Novaya Zemlya, in Siberia, about 1,350 miles east of Uppsala.

In Washington, the State Department deplored Soviet resumption of atmospheric testing as a "somber episode." In Japan, only nation to feel the wrath of an atomic bomb in wartime, a government spokesman said the new Soviet testing "is regrettable for world peace."

The big blast appeared to have kicked off a new round of Soviet military maneuvers in the far north, designed among other things to test new nuclear weapons.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry refused to comment on the report of a new test, and tight security blanketed the military maneuvers in the Arctic Circle. The Soviet government announced two weeks ago, however, that land, sea and air maneuvers would begin Sunday.

Tactical Weapons Tests Seen

The Soviet Defense Ministry said the troops would "conduct maneuvers with the actual use of various types of modern weapons."

Western military experts said new tactical weapons would probably be tried out under battlefield conditions during the 11-week period, as well as a series of experimental nuclear blasts.

They said the Soviet Union is believed to have trailed the United States in the development of compact nuclear weapons for its ground forces. Such weapons have probably been perfected by now and are ready for training exercises in the field, they said.

Typhoon Nora's Toll

Romney To Make Ballot Box Debut In Michigan

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Romney, former president of two American Motors, makes his bow at the ballot box Tuesday when candidate-picking is resumed with primaries in Michigan, Kansas and Missouri.

Romney, often mentioned as a possible candidate for the GOP presidential nomination in 1964, is certain to win his first vote test.

—for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Michigan—since he has only taken opposition.

But the size of Romney's vote will be watched by national political leaders for comparison with that polled by Democratic Gov. John John B. Swainson, who is unopposed for renomination.

Missouri has had a quiet campaign before selecting candidates for the Senate and House, but neighboring Kansas has a close GOP Senate race for an unexpected term.

So far, four Republicans and seven Democrats have lost in tries for renomination to the House or in efforts to win Senate or gubernatorial nominations.

The blast was estimated to be in the 20-megaton range by the Japanese Meteorological Agency.

Whatever the size, the blast carried out Premier Khrushchev's threat to resume testing in retaliation for U.S. Pacific tests.

Uppsala University's Seismological Institute, which classed the blast as in the range of 40 million tons of TNT, said it occurred at a higher altitude than the Soviet series of 1961, which was climaxed by the superbomb.

"Somber Episode" U.S. Says
Recordings at the institute indicated the test was carried out at the Soviet atomic testing ground on the island of Novaya Zemlya, in Siberia, about 1,350 miles east of Uppsala.

In Washington, the State Department deplored Soviet resumption of atmospheric testing as a "somer episode." In Japan, only nation to feel the wrath of an atomic bomb in wartime, a government spokesman said the new Soviet testing "is regrettable for world peace."

The big blast appeared to have kicked off a new round of Soviet military maneuvers in the far north, designed among other things to test new nuclear weapons.

The Soviet Foreign Ministry refused to comment on the report of a new test, and tight security blanketed the military maneuvers in the Arctic Circle. The Soviet government announced two weeks ago, however, that land, sea and air maneuvers would begin Sunday.

Tactical Weapons Tests Seen
The Soviet Defense Ministry said the troops would "conduct maneuvers with the actual use of various types of modern weapons."

Western military experts said new tactical weapons would probably be tried out under battlefield conditions during the 11-week period, as well as a series of experimental nuclear blasts.

They said the Soviet Union is believed to have trailed the United States in the development of compact nuclear weapons for its ground forces. Such weapons have probably been perfected by now and are ready for training exercises in the field, they said.

Typhoon Nora's Toll

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Typhoon Nora inflicted property damage of more than $500,000 in Korea last week, the South Korean government said Sunday. The report said four persons were killed and 22 are missing. Nearly 1,000 homes were destroyed or damaged by floods caused by the typhoon.

Secret Satellite Launched By AF

POINT ARGUELLO, Calif. (UPI)—A secret satellite packing the same bomb punch as the so-called "Sky Spy" Samos and Midas was launched toward polar orbit Sunday, the Air Force reported.

In keeping with Air Force policy, no details were announced. But the satellite was launched with an Atlas-Agena booster combination known to have been used in previous spy sky shots from this Pacific missile range base.

It was the second satellite launching from a Pacific missile range base within the last week.

Romney To Make Ballot Box Debut In Michigan

WASHINGTON (AP)—George Romney, former president of American Motors, makes his bow at the ballot box Tuesday when candidate-picking is resumed with primaries in Michigan, Kansas and Missouri.

Romney, often mentioned as a possible candidate for the GOP presidential nomination in 1964, is certain to win his first vote test—for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in Michigan—since he has only taken opposition.

But the size of Romney's vote will be watched by national political leaders for comparison with that polled by Democratic Gov. John John B. Swainson, who is unopposed for renomination.

Missouri has had a quiet campaign before selecting candidates for the Senate and House, but neighboring Kansas has a close GOP Senate race for an unexpired term.

So far, four Republicans and seven Democrats have lost in tries for renomination to the House or in efforts to win Senate or gubernatorial nominations.

The three primaries Tuesday will produce November candidates for three Senate, 34 House and two gubernatorial seats. After Tuesday, only 17 states still must hold primaries.

Michigan's primary, although featuring a newcomer to the national political scene, has been a dull affair except for a brief court flurry over reapportioning the State Senate.

Romney has conducted a strenuous campaign in hopes of capturing the governor's chair from the Democrats for the first time in 14 years.

A last-minute "write-in" sticker campaign was launched against him in Detroit in behalf of Richard Durant, an avowed member of the ultraconservative John Birch Society. Durant termed the sticker effort silly and said he is for Romney.

Algeria Guerrillas Free 20 Kidnaped Europeans

ALGIERS (UPI) — Algerian guerrilla army leaders who took over administration of Algiers a week ago freed 20 kidnaped Europeans Sunday as a "gesture of appeasement."

A woman and a French soldier were among the freed Europeans. A communiqué said they were kidnaped last month by Moslem soldiers of the former Algiers autonomous zone who were ousted from Algiers last Sunday in a bloodless coup by guerrilla fighters of military zone (Willaya) number four.

The Europeans liberated Sunday were a mere fraction of the estimated 1,000 civilians and soldiers the French say have been kidnaped by Algerians since the July 1 independence vote.

But the Willaya four commanding council made maximum publicity of their release before a battery of newsmen and television cameras at Algiers Orleans barracks.

In a communiqué the district commanders said the 20 Europeans were freed "as a gesture of appeasement and to point up the sincere desire of our population to see the Europeans contribute to the construction of a new and prosperous Algeria and to stay in the country."

The communiqué said that in some cases where the liberated Europeans were found guilty of terror attacks and murders, the French ambassador here would be asked to expel them.

It also pledged that the Algerian army in Algiers would do everything possible to trace other missing Europeans and to prevent further kidnappings.

Market Evacuated In Fake Bomb Scare

BALTIMORE (AP) — Police evacuated 150 persons from a supermarket Saturday after a fake bomb scare induced by a telephone call.

Store officials said the caller said the store would explode "any minute." Police and firemen failed to find a bomb, however.

Income of farm people rose to $1,373 per person in 1961, an increase of $118 from 1960, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reports.

AMF Chairman Heart Victim

WASHINGTON (AP) — Morehead Patterson, 64, chairman of the board of American Machine & Foundry Co., whose firm recently was charged with antitrust violations, died unexpectedly Sunday of a heart ailment.

Police said Patterson was found by his wife, Margaret, in an unconscious condition in a second-floor bedroom of their home.

American Machine & Foundry Co., and its subsidiary, American Machine & Foundry Pinnerotters, Inc., were among several firms which the government has charged with cooperating in limiting the establishment of new bowling facilities and expansion of existing ones.

was taken to the county morgue. Marilyn's beginnings were humble. She was born out of wedlock in Los Angeles County General Hospital on June 1, 1926. Her mother was a movie cutter named Gladys Baker. Her father was a handsome Danish immigrant named Edward Mortensen.

He disappeared before Marilyn was born as was reported to have been killed in a motorcycle crash in Ohio in 1926.

Marilyn's mother suffered a nervous breakdown after Marilyn was born and has spent a lifetime in and out of mental institutions. Her two parents died in asylums.

Out of Marilyn's childhood—she was born Norma Jean Baker—came the fears that were to haunt her later life. The facts became part of the Monroe saga—how she was placed in a Los Angeles orphanage, how she later was shunted from one foster home to another, beaten by some of her new parents, adored by others.

She learned early that she was attractive. The men and the boys she met in the foster homes impressed her with that. Seeking escape, she entered a hasty wartime marriage at 16 with an aircraft worker named Jim Dougherty, now a Los Angeles policeman.

When he went into the merchant marine, she got a job as a paint sprayer in a war plant. Their marriage never was resumed and she got a divorce in 1946.

She was developing into an unusually attractive young woman. A photographer recognized this and took some shots of her at the war plant.

This led to a modeling course in which she learned to bleach her brown hair, lower her voice and smile. But the teacher failed to correct her curious, double-jointed walk, and it was later to help build her fame.

Her success as a model brought the inevitable movie offers. She took one at 20th Century-Fox, where talent scout Ben Lyon gave her a new name.

Her first film was "Scudda Hoo, Scudda Hay," and she had one line: "Hello." It was later cut. 22 and fired from Columbia at 23.

But the Monroe buildup was one of the greatest in Hollywood history. Oddly, it was largely self-propelling, with only a nudge from press agents.

When it was revealed that she had posed in the nude for calendar art during her hungry years, she feared the news would destroy her career. Far from it. The revelation only added to her legend, and in later years she happily autographed copies of the pose, which had been printed millions of times.

Her second and third marriages were marked by headlines. She fell in love with the laconic baseball great Joe DiMaggio and they were married in 1954. The marriage lasted only nine months and she sued for divorce, saying he was uncommunicative.

In the late 1950s she became unhappy with Hollywood and moved to New York, where she studied at the theater and fell in love with the serious playwright, Arthur Miller.

They were married in 1956. She sought the quiet life as a house-

Taylor Faces Senate Quiz Airliner Hunt Proves Futile

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, appointed to head the top U.S. military group he once said should be abolished, faces some pointed senatorial questioning this week.

The Senate Armed Services Committee has scheduled for Thursday a public hearing on President Kennedy's nomination of Taylor as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. Taylor will be the chief witness.

There is little prospect that Taylor will not receive a committee okay and Senate confirmation but several senators indicated Sunday they will want to hear more about his views on strategy and defense organization before he takes over

Rep. Brewster Raps Opponent

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rep. Daniel B. Brewster, Democratic nominee for U.S. senator, says the criticism of the Kennedy Administration by the Republican nominee "is typical of the negative thinking and obstructionism that have so long plagued his party."

"His words are, however, entirely consistent with his record in Congress prior to his defeat in 1958," Brewster said of his opponent, Edward T. Miller.

"At times when fast-moving international events and serious domestic problems demand clear and constructive thinking," Brewster said, "certain elements within the Republican party come forth with thoughts most accurately described as 'againstism.'"

Miller, who served four terms as congressman from the Eastern Shore before his defeat in 1958 by Democrat Thomas F. Johnson, attacked the Kennedy Administration's foreign and domestic programs in a speech Friday night.

He said the President was trying to assert leadership by subsidy. Brewster is completing his second term as 2nd District congressman.

State Traffic Death Toll Reaches 317

By The Associated Press

Two deaths Sunday pushed the state's mounting highway toll for the current year to 317—83 more deaths than had been reported by this time last year.

Robert Lindwood Coleman, 22, Washington was killed in Riverdale, Md. when the car in which he had been a passenger went out of control and turned over in a ditch.

John W. Stem Jr., 30, Westminster, Md. died after his motorcycle collided with a truck on Maryland 140 in Baltimore County.

Police charged Jack Coakley, 35, with assault and battery. He was released on $500 bail.

Vancherie said the punching occurred in his office.

Dog Bites Man, Man Hits Mayor

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP) — Mayor James C. Vancherie reports he received a punch in the mouth from a taxpayer who claimed the mayor's dog bit him.

Six stitches were taken in the mayor's mouth at Harford Memorial Hospital after the incident Saturday.

Police charged Jack Coakley, 35, with assault and battery. He was released on $500 bail.

Boy's Killing Of Five Unexplained

BROOKINGS, S. D. (UPI) — The son of a farm couple "who have always been the first to help when problems came up" was held here Sunday for the admitted but unexplained killing of a neighbor family of five.

The boy, an honor student, whose name was being withheld in accordance with South Dakota law, talked freely about the Friday night slayings but could not say why he did it.

Brookings County state's Atty. Gordon Mydland said murder charges would be lodged in juvenile court Monday and the boy's name made public then. He is a 16-year-old who would have been a junior in nearby Arlington High School.

Mydland maintained there was a "sex element" in the deaths of farmer Hugh Paulson, 44, his wife, Lorraine, 35, and daughters Karlyn, 13, Anita, 9, and Leanne, 6.

Airliner Hunt Proves Futile

KATMANDU, Nepal (AP) — The fourth day of search for a missing Nepali airliner ended without result Sunday and hope dwindled for finding survivors.

The DC3 Dakota disappeared Wednesday on a 480-mile flight from Katmandu to New Delhi. Its 10 passengers included Nepal's ambassador to India, two American foreign aid inspectors and a Canadian schoolteacher.

Sunday's search concentrated on the jungle area 210 miles east of New Delhi.

The search will continue Monday but monsoon rains have flooded some areas of southern Nepal's plains and one member of the aerial search party said only rooftops were visible in some villages.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Coats — And Courtship

Beware of the "crush"! Courtship is a lot like courtship. The one's you're likely to fall for first and hardest are not always the ones you'd want to live with, day after day.

The right kind of coat for you, just like the right kind of spouse, has to meet certain special qualifications. It can't be judged on appearance alone.

Ask yourself these questions next time you shop for a coat: "Which coat will keep me comfortable in my home climate?" Is your home in a winter climate? Then, try not to be tempted by those buttonless clutch models or the collarless kinds with billowing sleeves.

"Can I afford to go overboard with an offbeat color or even a delicately-tinted neutral?" If this is to be THE coat in your season's wardrobe, you'd better stick to a solid neutral, and none so delicate that it'll be spending more time at the cleaner's than it does on you. The initial investment in a coat is great enough; it gets greater when you forget to add in the costs for frequent upkeep and the price of limited adaptability.

"Does this coat really fit me?" Even the most unbelievable

Coal Output Drops

BLUEFIELD, W. Va. (UPI)—Coal output by members of the Smokeless Operators Association last week dropped to 334,455 tons compared with 425,646 for the same week in 1961. However, the association said output for the year to date is 10.5 per cent ahead of last year's tonnage.

mark-down on the rack is no bargain if it will require extensive alterations. . . particularly letting-out. You'll also be smart to check fit (and co-ordination) if you plan to wear your coat over your suit. The coat should be ample, the color must be suitable, the styles of both should "belong" together.

"How long will I wear this coat . . . and how long will this coat wear? Don't part with a cent until you're sure the coat you're courting will last awhile. A coat's duties demand that it be made of a durable fabric. The workmanship should be fine enough to fend off the beating outer wear always takes. Zip-out linings should be double-checked for quality since their duties are doubled. Look for a well-made lining, uniform stitching, strong well-finished seams, neat, firm buttonholes cut on the grain and buttons bound tight to a long shank.

Knowing "Your Color Type" can be a blessing when you're puzzled about wardrobe co-ordination. That's the title of one of my most popular pamphlets. A copy can be yours with a request to me, John Robert Powers, c/o this newspaper. Be sure to enclose 10c and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

(C. 1962, By The Chicago Tribune)

ANSWERS TO BRIDGE QUIZ

Q. 1—As South you hold:

♠ K J 8 7 6 ♦ K 10 8 7 3 ♣ Q J 6

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

Pass Pass 1♥ 1♠

What do you bid now?

A—Three hearts. No temporizing bid is available to you since a two diamond call, in view of your previous pass, would not be forcing. This is a powerful hand and we would not look askance at a raise to four hearts.

Q. 2—You are South, vulnerable, and you hold:

♠ A Q J 8 7 4 ♦ K ♣ K 10 6 4 ♠ 6

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

1♠ 2♦ 4♥ 4♠

Pass 5♣ 5♥ ?

What do you bid now?

A—Six diamonds. This is admittedly a stab, but unfortunately there is no sure way of ascertaining whether partner possesses the right cards. There is the further prospect that the vulnerability status may induce the opponents to take out insurance with a save at six hearts which will, at least, add 200 additional points to your exchange.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠ 6 5 10 5 3 ♦ Q J 8 ♣ K Q 8 7 2

The bidding has proceeded:

West North East South

Pass 1♥ 3♠ Pass

Pass Double Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Four hearts. This is an awkward situation and the prospect of raising partner at the four level on three trumps is not an appealing one, but a bid of four clubs is too likely to be passed, since it is in the nature of a forced response and we would hesitate to advise a leap to five.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠ K 9 4 ♦ 8 3 ♦ 10 9 6 5 3 ♣ 8 7 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

2♠ 2♥ Pass 2NT Pass

3♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Four spades. Your initial response limited your hand so partner could hardly expect much more than this. A return to three spades will bring a quick end to the bidding at a mere game contract and, since your hand presents potential ruffing values in the heart suit, in addition to solidifying trump, slam prospects should not be lightly dismissed.

Q. 5—North-South vulnerable and as South you hold:

♠ K 4 ♦ 9 6 4 3 2 ♦ K Q J 9 5 ♠ 7

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

Pass 1♣ 1♠ Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Two spades. Opposite a partner who could venture a vulnerable overall, you have a hand of distinction and should offer partner an opportunity to contract for game. Bidding two of one of your red suits is not calculated to get you to game for, if partner rebids spades, you will hardly be in position to act again. Your trumps are adequate to support a vulnerable overall.

Q. 6—Neither vulnerable and as South you hold:

♠ 9 7 ♦ 8 3 ♦ K J 9 7 6 4 3 ♠ 10 9 8

Partner opens with one heart. What is your response?

A—Pass. To respond in any fashion with this hand might lead to serious complications. If you acknowledge your sad plight by passing, you may find it expedient to enter the auction on the next round.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠ K 7 6 5 3 ♦ 10 ♦ 7 2 ♣ K 9 8 6 4

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1♠ 2♥ 4♠ Pass

5♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A—Six spades. The bid above game in this sequence is conventionally regarded as an inquiry as to partner's holding in the adverse suit. If responder can promise that he will lose no more than one trick in that suit, he should accept the invitation. Observe that if your heart and diamond holdings were reversed your proper call would be a pass.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠ K 10 6 5 4 ♦ A 10 6 5 4 ♦ 2 ♠ A 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ 1♥ Pass 2♦ Pass

2♥ Pass 2NT Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Pass. Partner's non-jump bid of two no trump is not forcing and, tho we have a disinclination to stop short on constructive bidding, we cannot lose sight of the fact that we have a hand which contains only 11 high card points, and has some of the earmarks of a misfit.

Q. 9—As South you hold:

♠ K 10 6 5 4 ♦ A 10 6 5 4 ♦ 2 ♠ A 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ 1♥ Pass 2♦ Pass

2♥ Pass 2NT Pass

What do you bid now?

A—Pass. Partner's non-jump bid of two no trump is not forcing and, tho we have a disinclination to stop short on constructive bidding, we cannot lose sight of the fact that we have a hand which contains only 11 high card points, and has some of the earmarks of a misfit.

Q. 10—As South you hold:

♠ K 10 6 5 4 ♦ A 10 6 5 4 ♦ 2 ♠ A 2

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1♠ 1♥ Pass 2♦ Pass

2♥ Pass 2NT Pass

Q. 11—As South you hold:

♠ K 10 6 5 4 ♦ A 10 6 5 4 ♦ 2 ♠ A 2

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our make the grade. I hope those parents who are wildly ambitious think somebody died. The reason? My brother didn't get into Harvard and lay off.

DEAR ANN: My husband is 34. I'm 28. We have four children. I keep myself as attractive as I can on a limited income. Our home is pleasant and quiet considering the youngsters. I'm a good cook and no nagger.

For the last three months my husband has been spending more and more time away from home. Every Saturday afternoon he leaves and doesn't come back till dawn on Sunday. Then he leaves again on Sunday afternoon and comes home Monday morning in time to go to work.

I have no idea where he goes or what he does. He drinks a little but is never drunk. He never spends more than $10 on a weekend. I have no reason to suspect another woman although and forget. What shall I do?—D.J.

DEAR D.J.: Send your mother a picture of the children and ask I've raised the roof but it did her to come visit them. Time is no good. I've talked to him quietly a great healer. Perhaps she is ly — no results. Now that I am waiting for you to make the first silent he probably thinks I've move.

DEAR ANN: This misguided parental preoccupation with "certain schools" is a combination of snob appeal and the desire of parents to relieve their youth through their children.

Harvard is an excellent school, but there are many excellent schools and it may well be that the smaller college in Ohio would have been better than Harvard for your brother.

Anxiety and tension among high school students is great these days and I have a hunch the drive to get into "name" schools is a major factor. Almost without exception the parents are doing the pushing. This can be painful and damaging to the student who does his best but can't.

DEAR SISTER: This misguided parental preoccupation with "certain schools" is a combination of snob appeal and the desire of parents to relieve their youth through their children.

Frostburg Library Shows Fastest Growth In Year

FROSTBURG — In the annual report released this past month by the Frostburg Public Library the largest growth in use of the library since its inception in 1955 was experienced this past year.

Circulation of books increased 51 percent; attendance 38 percent and books added 69 percent. The library was moved to the new location it now occupies last September 15.

A continuous growth in the use of the library has been experienced every year since it was started.

Circulation has increased from 7,759 volumes loaned in 1955-56 to 37,529 in the year just closing.

Attendance has gone from 2,928 the first year to a total of 32,731 last year.

At the end of the first year there were 479 persons registered. Registration now is 1,231.

The number of books added each year has also increased annually. In 1957, 1454 volumes were added; 1,054 in 1958; 1,202 in 1959; 1,531 in 1960; 1,609 in 1961 and 2,728 the past year.

During the past year the averages have shown that 5.6 books have been loaned for every person in Frostburg or 16.3 books for every person registered at the library.

There is no charge for borrowing a book from the library other than a few volumes in the rental group. A small fine is assessed if books are kept out overtime.

Since moving into the new library there is now a room in the basement which is available for public use. Arrangements must be made ahead of time with the librarians and may be used from 7 to 11 p. m.

A story hour for four year olds through the first grade is held the first and third Saturdays of each month from 10:30 to 11:30 a. m. September through June.

The library is operated now under the County Library System. Should a member of the library desire certain volumes available in the local library an effort will be made to secure the books from the Cumberland library and if not available they will be received from the Enoch Pratt Library in Baltimore.

Located in the library also is a memory book which is used for persons who want to donate money in memory of a person deceased. The name of the donor and the person in whose memory the donation is made are both entered in the book.

Attorneys Pass Resolution On Apportioning

Conference Favors
State Rights

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI) — The Southern Conference of Attorneys General adopted a resolution Saturday supporting state's rights in the reapportionment of legislatures.

The resolution suggested that the federal government leave the problem up to the respective states. The U. S. Supreme Court recently held that the legislatures should step up their action to re-distribute seats, taking many away from the rural minorities.

The resolution said, "any judicial action in the field of apportionment should allow the actual decision concerning the character of representation to be made by the people of the state."

The resolution also called for submission of a constitutional amendment which could achieve equality of the legislature by "utilizing population in apportioning the other house."

West Virginia Motor Vehicles Director Jack Nuckolls also addressed the group, calling for a more uniform drivers license among the states.

West Virginia Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson told the conference that salaries should be upgraded in most states to lure young lawyers into the Attorney general's office.

Frostburg Library Shows Fastest Growth In Year

FROSTBURG—In the annual report released this past month by the Frostburg Public Library the largest growth in use of the library since its inception in 1955 was experienced this past year.

Circulation of books increased 51 percent; attendance 38 percent and books added 69 percent. The library was moved to the new location it now occupies last September 15.

A continuous growth in the use of the library has been experienced every year since it was started.

Circulation has increased from 7,759 volumes loaned in 1955-56 to 37,529 in the year just closing.

Attendance has gone from 2,928 the last year to a total of 32,731 last year.

At the end of the first year there were 479 persons registered. Registration now is 1,231.

The number of books added each year has also increased annually. In 1957, 1454 volumes were added; 1,054 in 1958; 1,202 in 1959; 1,531 in 1960; 1609 in 1961 and 2,728 the past year.

During the past year the averages have shown that 5.6 books have been loaned for every person in Frostburg or 16.3 books for every person registered at the library.

There is no charge for borrowing a book from the library other than a few volumes in the rental group. A small fine is assessed if books are kept out overtime.

Since moving into the new library there is now a room in the basement which is available for public use. Arrangements must be made ahead of time with the librarians and may be used from 7 to 11 p. m.

A story hour for four year olds through the first grade is held the first and third Saturdays of each month from 10:30 to 11:30 a. m. September through June.

The library is operated now under the County Library System. Should a member of the library desire certain volumes available in the local library an effort will be made to secure the books from the Cumberland library and if not available they will be received from the Enoch Pratt Library in Baltimore.

Located in the library also is a memory book which is used for persons who want to donate money in memory of a person deceased. The name of the donor and the person in whose memory the donation is made are both entered in the book.

David Willets is presently serving as the treasurer of the building fund. There is still a debt on the construction which the board of directors hope to have paid off as soon as possible. Mrs. Grace Bittner serves as chairman of the board.

Attorneys Pass Resolution On Apportioning

Conference Favors State Rights

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (UPI) — The Southern Conference of Attorneys General adopted a resolution Saturday supporting state's rights in the reapportionment of Legislatures.

The resolution suggested that the federal government leave the problem up to the respective states. The U. S. Supreme Court recently held that the legislatures should step up their action to redistribute seats, taking many away from the rural minorities.

The resolution said, "any judicial action in the field of apportionment should allow the actual decision concerning the character of representation to be made by the people of the state."

The resolution also called for submission of a constitutional amendment which could achieve equality of the legislature by "utilizing population in apportioning the other house."

West Virginia Motor Vehicles Director Jack Nuckols also addressed the group, calling for a more uniform drivers license among the states.

West Virginia Atty. Gen. C. Donald Robertson told the conference that salaries should be upgraded in most states to lure young lawyers into the Attorney general's office.

Uncle Sam The Scapegoat

When Dr. Ali Amini resigned a few days ago as premier of Iran, he blamed the United States, saying that the failure of the U. S. to provide enough economic aid and any military aid had crippled his efforts to reform the corruption-ridden Iranian government.

This was a classic half-truth.

For several months, Dr. Amini wrestled with a badly unbalanced budget. After a tremendous tussle, he whittled the deficit down to $60 million. Here it stuck because as Prime Minister he could not cut the army's funds, inasmuch as the army is the Shah's mainstay. Only the army's loyalty to the throne permits survival of the monarchy.

In past years, the U. S. has come to the rescue by providing funds for the army, which eats up 28 per cent of the national budget. In 1961, $15 million was handed over for this purpose. But Washington held up further payments to encourage Dr. Amini to make the necessary reforms to balance the budget.

Dr. Amini was up against a brick wall. He could not cut the army's budget without incurring the military chief's anger, which could topple the throne. But he also couldn't say this publicly. So, he blamed Uncle Sam — always a convenient scapegoat.

Iran now has a new prime minister. But the financial facts are unchanged and so he appears to have little chance of success either. But it is a safe bet that when his regime collapses, America will get the blame as usual.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

A New Twist

It is generally assumed that the Civil Liberties Union exists to protect the Constitutional rights of American citizens from the tyranny of officialdom and there is plenty of that. In fact, the Civil Liberties Union might look into the prosecution of cases by rumor and innuendo until the atmosphere of guilt is established where there is no evidence of guilt. However, I have before me a letter addressed to Representative Don L. Short in the course of which he is taken to task by Richard Humphreys, Chairman of the Milwaukee unit of the Civil Liberties Union, for the following reason:

"You indicate that your blood was boiling on this occasion because Judge Robert Mieh of the Milwaukee County court system had upheld a fine imposed on a union member who had failed to attend three out of five meetings as required by the union's constitution and by-laws. Your remarks indicate that you are particularly disturbed because the union's meetings, which are held on Sunday mornings, interfere with church attendance by the union member involved."

The facts are that the union meetings were held on Sunday; that the non-attending member was fined by the union; and that a court of law did uphold the union fine, thus becoming the legal arm of the union. Humphreys argues thus:

"No matter of conscience was involved in this case other than the union member's unwillingness to pay a fine for failure to attend the required number of union meetings. As far as this union member was concerned the meetings could have been held any day of the week and she still would have complained about paying the fine."

"The issue of church attendance came up after the matter had been settled and then only when a reporter of dubious credibility decided that injection of this issue would add a 'human interest' twist to the story."

If the member was unwilling to pay the union imposed fine, this was strictly a matter between the union and its member. Do our courts exist to enforce the decisions of private organizations? Humphreys' explanation seems to me specious. How can he possibly know what is in the heart and mind of another person? How does he know that the person in question does not prefer to go to church on Sunday rather than to a union meeting?

I have carefully read the correspondence between Congressman Short and Richard Humphreys and wonder precisely what business it is of the Civil Liberties Union unless it were to investigate why a public court upheld a union fine. That could be tyranny. That could be the use of a secular arm in a matter involving a private organization, which a labor union is.

This is the fundamental question in the Benson case. The union preferred to meet on Sunday; Mrs. Benson preferred to go to church on Sunday. She had inalienable rights to do as she chose. The union should recognize that religion is a matter of conscience and that if a person wants to go to church, the union should not interfere. If a union wants to meet on Sunday, why not in the afternoon after church hours? An accommodation can always be made by sensible men. The holding of meetings during church hours can be an imposition on a member just as it would be an imposition to hold a meeting on Yom Kippur or a meeting on Good Friday. A little gentility is always in order, even among labor officials.

But the question must be asked: what is the responsibility of the Civil Liberties Union in this matter? Exactly where does this organization come in? How is it affected? How does such a case fit into its program? It would seem to me that Richard Humphreys' letter to Representative Short exceeds the functions of this organization. Its national officials ought to investigate the conduct of the Milwaukee unit. Does it serve the public or the unions or the politicians?

From the public standpoint, it is important that organizations, to which contributions are made by the public, limit themselves to the functions for which they are established. Intimidating members of Congress surely is not the function of any such organization. Humphreys' letter is written on the stationery of the organization and therefore the responsibility for it must be the organization's.

The Benson case does stir interest because in spite of efforts to secularize everything, people do go to church.

Only Self-Restraint Can Help Racial Problems

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It isn't too clear whether President Kennedy, in his news conference on Wednesday, was trying to compliment the Negroes of Albany, Ga., or comparing them to the Communist government in Moscow, or whether he was trying to compliment the Communists. What the President said exactly was this:

"Let me say that I find it wholly inexplicable why the City Council of Albany will not sit down with the citizens of Albany, who may be Negroes, and attempt to secure them, in a peaceful way, their rights."

"The United States government is involved in sitting down at Geneva with the Soviet Union. I can't understand why the government of Albany—the City Council of Albany—cannot do the same for American citizens."

Now, in the first place, the President of the United States himself doesn't sit down with all the groups of agitators who picket the White House from time to time, and enter into solemn negotiations with them concerning their "rights" or the proposals they may wish to see adopted by the government.

In the second place, the United States government isn't sitting down at Geneva with a group of dissenters in its own ranks, but with another government which has been formally recognized as such.

Nor is it clear that government inside the United States, whether it be federal or state or local, must submit to bludgeoning by spectacular demonstrators who claim to be "non-violent" but who concede that what they do may stir up violence. They argue, however, that such tactics are justified because their cause seems to them to be just.

Nor is it clear either that the demonstrators are "citizens of Albany." Many of them come from other parts of the country as participants in a protest organized and financed by groups outside the city, if not the state. Mayor Kelly of Albany, commenting on President Kennedy's suggestion, is reported in the New York "Herald Tribune" as having said to the press:

"We have strictly a local problem which can and should be solved by local people only. The City Commission has no intention of negotiating with outside agitators who have announced their intention to violate the city ordinances and state statutes and who have, in fact, violated city ordinances, state statutes, and a restraining order issued by a federal court. We will never negotiate with any person whose announced purpose of being in our city is to turn the city upside down."

Was the President, in trying to show sympathy with the cause of the agitators, really aware that he was at the same time condoning the tactics of the agitators? He might more logically have called for the emergence of some mediating influence in the community, though he seems not to have known that the City Commission of Albany had not been unresponsive to informal efforts of that kind before. The New York "Times," in a dispatch from Albany, said on Thursday:

"Although individual commissioners have met with Negroes informally, there have been no formal consultation on the Negroes' demands for desegregation of public facilities."

But whom do the agitators represent? Have they been chosen by any formal action of the Negroes of the city? Why should any group which comes in from the outside be accorded formal recognition and a formal negotiating status when it hasn't any credentials that show it to be truly representative of the residents of the community? The American government, incidentally, has refused to recognize the military junta in Peru because it holds no credentials as yet from the people of Peru.

Plainly democratic government either has to be conducted by formal procedures of some kind or else be swayed by the wishes of any emotional mob that gathers in front of City Hall. President Kennedy, upon reflection, would hardly wish to be bound by the precedent he established when he said that the City Council of Albany should sit down with the leaders of the mob and arrive at formal decisions as to how the city shall apply its law and ordinances.

Solutions to the racial problem in the South are hardly more difficult or perplexing than they are in certain cities in the North. Progress will not be made by inflaming passions through public demonstrations. Progress will be made only by the exercise of self-restraint and an obedience to the orders of courts of law.

Unique Jury Decides On Uremia Treatment

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Seattle can boast of one of the most unusual juries in the world. Its members act as a committee to decide who can obtain a life saving treatment that is so expensive and time consuming, its facilities are limited. In the strict sense, their decision involves whether the use of an artificial kidney will prolong life or prolong death.

The committee consists of a housewife, banker, labor leader, lawyer, state official, and two physicians not associated with the project. The screening is done for Dr. Belding Scribner and his colleagues, who supervise two units in Seattle. One is supported financially by the government and the other by a grant from the John A. Hartford Foundation.

Here is the problem: When the kidneys fail to function because of a variety of diseases, the urinary output becomes nil and the poisons, usually eliminated by the renal structures, accumulate in the blood (uremia).

This condition is more common in the elderly who have hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, or a long standing kidney infection. In most instances, uremia is a terminal condition in this age group and the use of the artificial kidney is more likely to prolong death.

On the other hand, there are many otherwise healthy, emotionally mature adults under 45 who no longer are able to work because of uremia. Their kidneys are shot because of inherited defects, serious infections, or stones.

Poisons can be filtered out when these people are connected to the artificial kidney for 12 to 24 hours. But the results are temporary and, within a week this difficult procedure must be repeated.

Lung collapse occurs when air gets into the space between the lungs and chest wall. In many instances, a weakened air sac ruptures, causing the air in the lung to escape into the pleural space. In others, the tissues along the edge of the lung are weakened by a disease such as tuberculosis.

TELL YOUR AGE
L. H. writes: Can a doctor tell a woman's age by taking her blood pressure?

REPLY
No. The old idea is passe that the blood pressure ought to be 100 plus the age. A woman is fooling herself when she refuses to tell her true age to the physician.

BLACKOUTS
E. L. writes: What can you tell me about syncope?

REPLY
Syncope is the medical term for fainting. Books have been written on this subject. There are two dozen or more causes. They vary from common fainting to passing out because the heart beats too slowly.

TOO MUCH COLON
B. B. writes: Is surgery inevitable for a redundant colon? REPLY
No. There is no harm in a redundant colon so long as it works—and it usually does.

POLIO-LIKE VIRUSES
E. L. writes: What can you tell me about the Coxsackie viruses? REPLY
These are primarily intestinal viruses that resemble the polio virus in some ways. They cause ill defined diseases and fevers, including infections involving the mouth, diaphragm, and the membrane covering the brain.

LIGHT MOLES
H. H. writes: Can light colored moles become malignant? REPLY
Yes, especially when irritated or injured. Is your diagnosis correct?

SMOKING AND SINUS DISEASE
J. D. writes: Does smoking help sinus trouble? A woman of 35 is being urged by her friends to start smoking as this helped their sinus. REPLY
To my knowledge, smoking has never helped or cured any diseases. Years ago, cubed cigars were advocated for asthma but they proved useless. Smoking is likely to aggravate nasal disorders and respiratory conditions.

CROW'S FEET
F. G. writes: Are terrible crows, feet around the eyes of a 31 year old woman a sign of disease? REPLY
No. These wrinkles come from squinting as a result of poor vision or being subject to excessive light. The thin skinned person is more susceptible to crow's feet.

TO the limit of space questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Other Medicines Than Thalidomide May Cause Birth Abnormalities

By Jack Anderson

(Editor's Note: Drew Pearson is touring the Balkans. In his absence, the Washington Merry-Go-Round will be written by his associate, Jack Anderson.)

WASHINGTON — Shocked by the tragedy of the drug-deformed babies, Minnesota Sen. Hubert Humphrey, the only pharmacist in the Senate, has ordered an investigation into the sobering possibility that thalidomide may not be the only drug causing abnormal births.

Although his investigators have uncovered no final proof, the promiscuous use of drugs by pregnant women may be a major cause of mental retardation and physical deformities. Here is what the Humphrey committee is learning:

Drug manufacturers have done appallingly little testing on animal fetuses. But even drugs that have been found safe for animals may damage the human embryo, which is highly vulnerable to drugs.

"Women in the child-bearing age must be educated not to take new drugs," warns Dr. Helen Taussig, the Johns Hopkins expert on baby malformations.

Another problem is the habit of pregnant women to run for medication over the slightest discomfort or headache. Pills that relieve distress may never have been tested on unborn babies and could cause unknown injury.

Meanwhile, Europe's sleeping-pill nightmare is spreading to Canada and the United States, as more women who have taken thalidomide pills are giving birth to hideously deformed babies.

More Deformities Expected

Since the pills weren't withdrawn from use on this side of the Atlantic until March, the full extent of the epidemic won't be known until Christmas.

Hardest hit were Germany and England where the tragic sleeping pills had been on the market since 1959.

Although the Defense Department claims no deformed babies have been born to Americans stationed in Europe, this column found an Army couple whose deformed, two-year-old daughter was conceived in Germany. The mother had purchased thalidomide tablets from a German pharmacy.

Now living in St. Paul, Minn., the couple requested that their identity be withheld. However, they reported other servicemen probably bought the pills, too — particularly if they lived any distance from an American post.

The young parents described their heartbreak over the birth of their second baby with no legs and only stumps for arms. The tragedy perhaps is increased by the fact that she is otherwise a normal, alert child already saying her first words.

Two-thirds of the deformed babies have survived, and almost all appear to be normally intelligent. This means they will grow up, like human penguins, fully aware of their horrible deformities.

Abortion Or Not

"My initial reaction," says the father, "was that the child would have been better off born dead. But as time passed, my feelings changed."

"Actually, she has been a source of joy for us."

The mother feels even stronger about it, disagrees with Mrs. Robert Finkbine of Phoenix, Ariz., who is seeking an abortion to prevent the birth of a baby she fears may be deformed by thalidomide.

The Army wife believes Mrs. Finkbine should have her baby. On the other hand, Dr. Richard Hoffman, New York City, who delivered a drug-deformed baby to a Long Island woman, told this column that his patient "was happy her child didn't survive."

He believed most mothers would rather have an abortion than give birth to a deformed child.

Yet he knew mothers, he said, who "would give more attention to a defective child than a normal one."

"Pity," he added, "is akin to love."

One of the Canadian mothers arranged to place her deformed child in a nursing home, but changed her mind after one look at the place.

"That's no place for my baby," she said defiantly.

And so the sad story continues to unfold.

Inside White House

Oppressed by the August heat and harassed by a Senate filibuster, Senate leader Mike Mansfield was in a testy mood last week when the Democratic high command came down from Capitol Hill to the White House for their weekly breakfast with President Kennedy.

The mild-mannered Mansfield is probably the most patient man in the Senate, but he munched sullenly on his toast as the discussion began.

Inevitably, the President brought up the communications satellite bill which had caused the filibuster.

"How is the satellite bill coming?" he asked.

"This is the Senate's business!" snapped Mansfield. "We'll handle it in our own way!"

Coming from Mansfield, the short outburst startled the President as if a string of firecrackers had been set off under his chair.

The tension was broken, however, when handsome Hale Boggs, the No. 3 man in the House, breezed in late for breakfast. He had just come from a 3-to-1 triumph in the Louisiana primary.

The assembled Democratic leaders scrambled to their feet and bowed their heads in mock tribute.

"Welcome the conquering New Frontiersman!" greeted the President.

"Yes, Sir!" exulted Boggs.

"The main issue in my campaign was the Kennedy administration, and we whopped the hell out of them!"

Sometimes, when the warrior's work is done, West Point calls a son home to stand final retreat. Behind the severe gray buildings which stare down at the Hudson is a cemetery. There, under the grass, sleep some of the best: George Custer, Winfield Scott, Robert Anderson, Mickey Marcus.

Headstones are the dogtags of eternity. One, over a young lieutenant buried in 1782, is almost unreadable. Another, marked "Colonel David Marcus—A Soldier for All Humanity" looks as though it was carved yesterday. It has been standing, in sun and shade, glistening with rain and heavy with icicles, for 14 years.

Mickey Marcus of Brooklyn was born to fight. He was a tenement house Jew. Whatever he got, he fought for—with fists, with argument, with gun, with logic and, most of all, with righteousness. Figuratively, he clawed his way into West Point and, after graduation, through the tedium of waiting for promotion.

He became a boxer, and a good one. Behind his aggression was the psychology of the persecuted minority — the belligerent lamb. He would have none of it. All he had to do to win recognition was to be twice as militant as any other soldier. David Marcus was. In World War II, Marcus drove General Hildring to distraction in his efforts to get reassigned from Eisenhower's headquarters to the beaches at Normandy.

Marcus won that fight too. He got to Dachau. He saw the cold ovens which had once been hot with the flesh of his people. So, when the Jews began their fight to establish a small nation along the sand of the Mediterranean, Marcus went there. And there, still a young man, he died.

I have been aware of this story for a long time. So far as I know, Ted Berkman is the first to commit it to a book. It is called "Cast a Giant Shadow" and it traces the fate of Marcus with affection and eloquence. Bits and pieces of the story are new to me. For instance, the last night.

It was June 1948. Mickey Marcus was Commander-in-Chief of the Jewish forces in the Jerusalem area. The fight with the Arabs was to end in six hours. A United Nations truce team was working on lines of demarcation. The Arabs had won the old city of Jerusalem, and lost the modern part. Marcus couldn't sleep.

He got out of his cot, pulled a sheet around his shoulders, and left the monastery where his headquarters had been established. It was a hot moonless night. His sandals crunched on the gravel walk. A sentry recognized the commander, and waved. Marcus waved, stepped over a small fence and walked along a small wooded ridge.

Like Ernie Pyle, he carried the burden of an ominous nothing. In the past week, he had responded to several invitations with "If I make it," "If I'm around." Now, all he had to do was to live six more hours, and the shooting would be over. Then he could go back to his wife in Brooklyn and, for the rest of his days, proclaim himself as one who had fought for an ancient dream—Israel.

He started to walk back toward his headquarters close to 4 a. m. The sentry had been relieved by a recruit from Eastern Europe. The new man was tense. When he saw a white shrouded figure coming out of the woods, he called "Mi Sham?" (Who goes there?). He heard a muffled reply. The sentry cocked his rifle. He had to protect his headquarters. So he fired a warning shot.

The figure in the sheet hopped the small fence, still talking to the guard. The sentry began to shake. He lowered the rifle, aimed for the belly, and squeezed the trigger. Col. David Marcus, U. S. Army, saw a bright wink of light, and then all the lights went out, for all time.

In the morning, all the guns stopped firing. A strained peace prevailed. The body of Mickey Marcus was flown back to Brooklyn. The wife who waited was given what was left of her man for a moment. Then he was taken to the temple and, from there, to West Point.

At the graveside, Gov. Thomas Dewey stood bareheaded. Beside him was Henry Morgenthau. And officials of the City of New York. Some Brooklyn neighbors, too. And General Maxwell Taylor. It was a sunny day, a day when birds hide in the thick branches of oaks and warble throatily, a day when the perfume of grass is on the meadows and a soldier is remembered with a freshly etched headstone

Uncle Sam The Scapegoat

When Dr. Ali Amini resigned a few days ago as premier of Iran, he blamed the United States, saying that the failure of the U. S. to provide enough economic aid and any military aid had crippled his efforts to reform the corruption-ridden Iranian government.

This was a classic half-truth.
For several months, Dr. Amini wrestled with a badly unbalanced budget. After a tremendous tussle, he whittled the deficit down to $60 million. Here it stuck because as Prime Minister he could not cut the army's funds, inasmuch as the army is the Shah's mainstay. Only the army's loyalty to the throne permits survival of the monarchy.

In past years, the U. S. has come to the rescue by providing funds for the army, which eats up 28 per cent of the national budget. In 1961, $15 million was handed over for this purpose. But Washington held up further payments to encourage Dr. Amini to make the necessary reforms to balance the budget.

Dr. Amini was up against a brick wall. He could not cut the army's budget without incurring the military chief's anger, which could topple the throne. But he also couldn't say this publicly. So, he blamed Uncle Sam — always a convenient scapegoat.

Iran now has a new prime minister. But the financial facts are unchanged and so he appears to have little chance of success either. But it is a safe bet that when his regime collapses, America will get the blame as usual.

These Days

A New Twist

It is generally assumed that the Civil Liberties Union exists to protect the Constitutional rights of American citizens from the tyranny of officialdom and there is plenty of that. In fact, the Civil Liberties Union might look into the prosecution of cases by rumor and innuendo until the atmosphere of guilt is established where there is no evidence of guilt. However, I have before me a letter addressed to Representative Don L. Short in the course of which he is taken to task by Richard Humphreys, Chairman of the Milwaukee unit of the Civil Liberties Union, for the following reason:

"You indicate that your blood was boiling on this occasion because Judge Robert Meech of the Milwaukee County court system had upheld a fine imposed on a union member who had failed to attend three out of five meetings as required by the union's constitution and by-laws. Your remarks indicate that you are particularly disturbed because the union's meetings, which are held on Sunday mornings, interfere with church attendance by the union member involved."

The facts are that the union meetings were held on Sunday; that the non-attending member was fined by the union; and that a court of law did uphold the union fine, thus becoming the legal arm of the union. Humphreys argues thus:

"No matter of conscience was involved in this case other than the union member's unwillingness to pay a fine for failure to attend the required number of union meetings. As far as this union member was concerned the meetings could have been held any day of the week and she still would have complained about paying the fine."

"The issue of church attendance came up after the matter had been settled and then only when a reporter of dubious credibility decided that injection of this issue would add a 'human interest' twist to the story."

If the member was unwilling to pay the union imposed fine, this was strictly a matter between the union and its member. Do our courts exist to enforce the decisions of private organizations? Humphreys' explanation seems to me specious. How can he possibly know what is in the heart and mind of another person? How does he know that the person in question does not prefer to go to church on Sunday rather than to a union meeting?

I have carefully read the correspondence between Congressman Short and Richard Humphreys and wonder precisely what business it is of the Civil Liberties Union unless it were to investigate why a public court upheld a union fine. That could be tyranny. That could be the use of a secular arm in a matter involving a private organization, which a labor union is.

This is the fundamental question in the Benson case. The union preferred to meet on Sunday; Mrs. Benson preferred to go to church on Sunday. She had inalienable rights to do as she chose. The union should recognize that religion is a matter of conscience and that if a person wants to go to church, the union should not interfere. If a union wants to meet on Sunday, why not in the afternoon after church hours? An accommodation can always be made by sensible men. The holding of meetings during church hours can be an imposition on a member just as it would be an imposition to hold a meeting on Yom Kippur or a meeting on Good Friday. A little gentility is always in order, even among labor officials.

But the question must be asked: what is the responsibility of the Civil Liberties Union in this matter? Exactly where does this organization come in? How is it affected? How does such a case fit into its program? It would seem to me that Richard Humphreys' letter to Representative Short exceeds the functions of this organization. Its national officials ought to investigate the conduct of the Milwaukee unit. Does it serve the public or the unions or the politicians?

From the public standpoint, it is important that organizations, to which contributions are made by the public, limit themselves to the functions for which they are established. Intimidating members of Congress surely is not the function of any such organization. Humphreys' letter is written on the stationery of the organization and therefore the responsibility for it must be the organization's.

The Benson case does stir interest because in spite of efforts to secularize everything, people do go to church.

Only Self-Restraint Can Help Racial Problems

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — It isn't too clear whether President Kennedy, in his news conference on Wednesday, was trying to compliment the Negroes of Albany, Ga., by comparing them to the Communist government in Moscow, or whether he was trying to compliment the Communists. What the President said exactly was this:

"Let me say that I find it wholly inexplicable why the City Council of Albany will not sit down with the citizens of Albany, who may be Negroes, and attempt to secure them, in a peaceful way, their rights."

"The United States government is involved in sitting down at Geneva with the Soviet Union. I can't understand why the government of Albany—the City Council of Albany—cannot do the same for American citizens."

Now, in the first place, the President of the United States himself doesn't sit down with all the groups of agitators who picket the White House from time to time, and enter into solemn negotiations with them concerning their "rights" or the proposals they may wish to see adopted by the government.

In the second place, the United States government isn't sitting down at Geneva with a group of dissenters in its own ranks, but with another government which has been formally recognized as such.

Nor is it clear that government inside the United States, whether it be federal or state or local, must submit to bludgeoning by spectacular demonstrators who claim to be "non-violent" but who concede that what they do may stir up violence. They argue, however, that such tactics are justified because their cause seems to them to be just.

Nor is it clear either that the demonstrators are "citizens of Albany." Many of them come from other parts of the country as participants in a protest organized and financed by groups outside the city, if not the state. Mayor Kelly of Albany, commenting on President Kennedy's suggestion, is reported in the New York "Herald Tribune" as having said to the press:

"We have strictly a local problem which can and should be solved by local people only. The City Commission has no intention of negotiating with outside agitators who have announced their intention to violate the city ordinances and state statutes and who have, in fact, violated city ordinances, state statutes, and a restraining order issued by a federal court. We will never negotiate with any person whose announced purpose of being in our city is to turn the city upside down."

Was the President, in trying to show sympathy with the cause of the agitators, really aware that he was at the same time condoning the tactics of the agitators? He might more logically have called for the emergence of some mediating influence in the community, though he seems not to have known that the City Commission of Albany had not been unresponsive to informal efforts of that kind before. The New York "Times," in a dispatch from Albany, said on Thursday:

"Although individual commissioners have met with Negroes informally, there have been no formal consultation on the Negroes' demands for desegregation of public facilities."

But whom do the agitators represent? Have they been chosen by any formal action of the Negroes of the city? Why should any group which comes in from the outside be accorded formal recognition and a formal negotiating status when it hasn't any credentials that show it to be truly representative of the residents of the community? The American government, incidentally, has refused to recognize the military junta in Peru because it holds no credentials as yet from the people of Peru.

Plainly democratic government either has to be conducted by formal procedures of some kind or else be swayed by the wishes of any emotional mob that gathers in front of City Hall. President Kennedy, upon reflection, would hardly wish to be bound by the precedent he established when he said that the City Council of Albany should sit down with the leaders of the mob and arrive at formal decisions as to how the city shall apply its law and ordinances.

Solutions to the racial problem in the South are hardly more difficult or perplexing than they are in certain cities in the North. Progress will not be made by inflaming passions through public demonstrations. Progress will be made only by the exercise of self-restraint and an obedience to the orders of courts of law.

Unique Jury Decides On Uremia Treatment

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Seattle can boast of one of the most unusual juries in the world. Its members act as a committee to decide who can obtain a life saving treatment that is so expensive and time consuming, its facilities are limited. In the strict sense, their decision involves whether the use of an artificial kidney will prolong life or prolong death.

The committee consists of a housewife, banker, labor leader, lawyer, state official, and two physicians not associated with the project. The screening is done for Dr. Belding Scribner and his colleagues, who supervise two units in Seattle. One is supported financially by the government and the other by a grant from the John A. Hartford Foundation.

Here is the problem: When the kidneys fail to function because of a variety of diseases, the urinary output becomes nil and the poisons, usually eliminated by the renal structures, accumulate in the blood (uremia).

This condition is more common in the elderly who have hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, or a long standing kidney infection. In most instances, uremia is a terminal condition in this age group and the use of the artificial kidney is more likely to prolong death.

On the other hand, there are many otherwise healthy, emotionally mature adults under 45 who no longer are able to work because of uremia. Their kidneys are shot because of inherited defects, serious infections, or stones.

Poisons can be filtered out when these people are connected to the artificial kidney for 12 to 24 hours. But the results are temporary and, within a week this difficult procedure must be repeated.

Lung collapse occurs when air gets into the space between the lungs and chest wall. In many instances, a weakened air sac ruptures, causing the air in the lung to escape into the pleural space. In others, the tissues along the edge of the lung are weakened by a disease such as tuberculosis.

TELL YOUR AGE
L. H. writes: Can a doctor tell a woman's age by taking her blood pressure?

REPLY
No. The old idea is passe that the blood pressure ought to be 100 plus the age. A woman is fooling herself when she refuses to tell her true age to the physician.

BLACKOUTS
E. L. writes: What can you tell me about syncope?

REPLY
Syncope is the medical term for fainting. Books have been written on this subject. There are two dozen or more causes. They vary from common fainting to passing out because the heart beats too slowly.

TOO MUCH COLON
B. B. writes: Is surgery inevitable for a redundant colon?

REPLY
No. There is no harm in a redundant colon so long as it works—and it usually does.

POLIO-LIKE VIRUSES
E. L. writes: What can you tell me about the Coxsackie viruses?

REPLY
These are primarily intestinal viruses that resemble the polio virus in some ways. They cause ill defined diseases and fevers, including infections involving the mouth, diaphragm, and the membrane covering the brain.

REPLY
Yes, especially when irritated or injured. Is your diagnosis correct?

SMOKING AND SINUS DISEASE

REPLY
To my knowledge, smoking has never helped or cured any diseases. Years ago, cubed cigars were advocated for asthma but they proved useless. Smoking is likely to aggravate nasal disorders and respiratory conditions.

Try And Stop Me

Olivia de Havilland, in her gay and successful book, "Every Frenchman Has One," tells how, shortly after she married a famous French editor, and moved to Paris to live, she met a leading cabinet minister of France. The minister obviously was enchanted by Miss de Havilland and confided to her that she would enjoy certain rights in Paris that she never could count on in America.

"For example," whispered the minister, "if your husband Pierre should stray from the home fires, and if, in spite of your Anglo-Saxon heritage, a flash of Latin passion should overcome you, and you shoot him, you won't have a thing to worry about: any French jury will acquit you. But, I must add, if you marry a second Frenchman, and he too proves unfaithful—I advise against shooting a second time. It won't prove quite so easy!"

Fort Cumberland Whips Salisbury, 14-7, Cops State Legion Title

Post 13 Earns Regional Berth, Plays Delaware

Game Set Thursday
At College Park;
Sloan Posts Win

Scoring one or more runs in every inning but the fourth and fifth, Fort Cumberland Post 13, walloped Wicomico Post of Salisbury yesterday at Burton Shipley Field, College Park, by the score of 14-7 and captured the Maryland Department American Legion junior baseball title.

The Cumberland team copped the championship by sweeping three straight games, defeating Salisbury Thursday by the score of 6-5 in 10 innings, Essex Post of Baltimore county Friday, 9-5, and repeating in the final Sunday against the Eastern Shore nine, Play Delaware Thursday.

Thus, Fort Cumberland Post qualified for the regional tournament to be held this weekend at College Park. Opening round pairing for the regional Thursday are as follows:

9 a. m. West Virginia vs New Jersey; 12 noon, District of Columbia and 3 p. m., Cumberland, Maryland champion, vs Delaware. The four-day regional event ends Sunday with the winner qualifying for the national championship tournament at Bismarck, North Dakota.

Sloan Is Victor

John "Lefty" Sloan, LaSalle High school athlete, was the winner in yesterday's game. He hurled 6 1/2 innings, yielded six runs and six hits, struck out six and gave up four bases on balls.

After Mike Corbett, Wicomico shortstop, clouted a three-run homer in the 7th inning, Sloan gave way to Jim Steward and turned in a stellar relief performance the remainder of the way. Jim yielded only two hits over 2 1/2 innings and a two-base error in the 9th deprived him of shutting out the opposition. Steward struck out four and issued one walk.

Winners Get 13 Hits

Cumberland collected 13 hits with Michael Long, Joe Ranker, Ronald Hamilton, Charles "Butch" Cross and Ronald Manges obtaining two blows each. Long collected a single and double and was hit twice by pitched balls in yesterday's game and wound up the tournament with a batting average of .643 on major league career—but needed nine hits in 14 official trips. In relief help from Jim Bunning in the three games, Fort Cumberland's ninth inning of the nightcap, land amassed a total of 29 runs and 34 hits.

Jimmie Cox started Cumberland on its way with a single to center in the first inning. He stole second and took third on Long's infield hit. Joe Ranker spicked a single to right, scoring Cox, and moving Long to third. Hamilton sent Long home with a sacrifice bunt and Cross singled over the third tally of the inning.

In the second inning, Manges hit to right, pilfered second, advanced to third on Sloan's long fly to right field and scored on a hit by Bill Norris.

Hamilton Belts Triple
Cumberland made it 6-2 by scoring two more runs in the third. Long was hit by a pitched ball, swiped second and reached third on a wild throw by the catcher. After Ranker grounded out, Hamilton slammed a triple to left to score Long. After Cross walked, Roger Flanagan's infield out played Hamilton.

Cross' double to center and Manges' base rap to left accounted for Cumberland's seventh run in the 5th frame.

In the sixth, Long rapped a two-bagger to left and Ranker singled high home. Hamilton hit to center and Cross walked to load the bases. Flanagan also drew a pass, sending Ranker home.

Score Four Runs In 7th
Cumberland came up with four more tallies in the 7th by coupling four walks with an infield out, three passed balls and Flanagan's single.

With two down in the 8th, Cox walked, advanced to second on a passed ball and scored on a passed ball after Long was hit for the second time by a pitched ball. Salisbury scored twice in the opening frame on McAllister's sacrifice fly, Corbett belted a three-run homer in the 7th and an error by Ranker and Corbett's single gave the Eastern Shore team its final marker in the bottom of the 9th.

Ed Greene, the first of four Salisbury pitchers, was tagged with the loss. He was belted out in the second inning and was followed to the hillock by Adkins, G. Pusey and Massey. Wicomico hurlers issued 13 bases on balls.

McAllister, G. Pusey and Corbett shared six of Salisbury's eight hits.

Salisbury reached the finals in the four-day tournament by beating Essex by the score of 7-0 in the only game played Saturday, Cap 4th State Title.

This is the fourth time Fort Cumberland Post has won the state championship. The 1933, 1934 and 1935 teams captured state honors and the 1934 team won the national championship at Chicago.

Detroit Cracks Twins' 5-Game Victory Skein

DETROIT (AP)—The Minnesota Twins rallied for six runs in the 11th inning of the first game for an 8-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers Sunday before their five-game winning streak was halted 5-2 in the nightcap.

The split enabled the second-place Twins to pick up one-half game and close within five games of the New York Yankees in the American League standings.

Lenny Green's bouncing single—one of his five base hits in the twin bill—broke a 2-2 tie and started the Twins' flood of runs in the 11th of the opener. Minnesota packed six hits into the rally, topped off by Rich Rollins' two-run homer and Bill Tuttle's triple. Rookie Howard Koplitz earned double and was hit twice by pitched balls in yesterday's game and wound up the tournament with a batting average of .643 on major league career—but needed nine hits in 14 official trips. In relief help from Jim Bunning in the three games, Fort Cumberland's ninth inning of the nightcap, land amassed a total of 29 runs and 34 hits.

Ron Nischwitz, third of five Tiger pitchers, was the loser in the first game. Jackie Collum, making his second start in two days, again failed to start the second inning and took the loss in the nightcap.

Birds Sweep Three-Game Series With Angels, 7-2

Roberts Wins 7th;
Williams, Adair
Bat In Five Runs

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Robin Roberts completed the Baltimore Orioles' three-game sweep of the faltering Los Angeles Angels Sunday with a five-hit, 7-2 victory.

Two opposite-field triples by right-handed hitters Jerry Adair and Dick Williams drove in five of the runs. Adair's triple off losing pitcher Eli Grba scored two runs in the fifth inning to erase the Angels' 2-1 lead. With two out, Hobie Landrith and Roberts singled and Adair then hit a high fly which right fielder Lee Thomas barely missed catching.

Williams, pinch-hitting in the eighth inning, hit the same type of triple as Adair to clear the bases and give the Orioles a 6-2 lead. Ron Hansen followed with another right-field blow, a double, to complete Baltimore's scoring.

Cincy Wins, 6-3, After 5-2 Defeat

NEW YORK (AP)—Cincinnati salvaged the second game of Sunday's doubleheader with the New York Mets 6-3 on home runs by Gordy Coleman and Frank Robinson after the Mets won their third straight in the opener 5-2.

Post 13 Earns Regional Berth, Plays Delaware

Game Set Thursday
At College Park;
Sloan Posts Win

Scoring one or more runs in every inning but the fourth and fifth, Fort Cumberland Post 13, walloped Wicomico Post of Salisbury yesterday at Burton Shipley Field, College Park, by the score of 14-7 and captured the Maryland Department American Legion junior baseball title.

The Cumberland team copped the championship by sweeping three straight games, defeating Salisbury Thursday by the score of 14-7 in 10 innings, Essex Post of Baltimore county Friday, 9-5, and repeating in the finale Sunday against the Eastern Shore nine, Play Delaware Thursday.

Thus, Fort Cumberland Post qualified for the regional tournament to be held this weekend at College Park. Opening round play for the regional Thursday are as follows:

9 a. m., West Virginia vs. New Jersey, 12 noon, District of Columbia and 3 p. m., Cumberland, Maryland champion, vs. Delaware. The four-day regional event ends Sunday with the winner qualifying for the national championship tournament at Bismarck, North Dakota.

Sloan Is Victor

John "Lefty" Sloan, LaSalle High School athlete, was the winner in yesterday's game. He hurled six innings, yielded six runs and six hits, struck out six and gave up four bases on balls.

After Mike Corbett, Wicomico shortstop, clouted a three-run homer in the 7th inning, Sloan gave way to Jim Steward, who turned in a stellar relief performance the remainder of the way. Jim yielded only two hits over 2 1/2 innings and a two-base error in the 9th deprived him of shutting out the opposition. Steward struck out four and issued one walk.

Winners Get 13 Hits

Cumberland collected 13 hits with Michael Long, Joe Ranker, Ronald Hamilton, Charles "Butch" Cross and Charlie Manges obtaining two blows each. Long collected a single and double and was hit twice by pitched balls in yesterday's game and wound up the tournament with a batting average of .643 on relief from Jim Bunning in the three games. Fort Cumberland amassed a total of 29 runs and 34 hits.

Jimmie Cox started Cumberland on its way with a single to center in the first inning. He stole second and took third on Long's infield hit. Joe Ranker spraked a single to right, scoring Cox, and moving Long to third. Hamilton sent Long home with a sacrifice bunt and Cross singled over the third tally of the inning.

In the second inning, Manges hit to right, pilfered second, advanced to third on Sloan's long fly to right field and scored on a hit by Bill Norris.

Hamilton Belts Triple
Cumberland made it 6-2 by scoring two more runs in the third. Long was hit by a pitched ball, swiped second and reached third on a wild throw by the catcher. After Ranker grounded out, Hamilton slammed a triple to left to score Long. After Cross walked, Roger Flanagan's infield out plated Hamilton.

Cross' double to center and Manges' base to left accounted for Cumberland's seventh run in the 5th frame.

In the sixth, Long rapped a two-bagger to left and Ranker singled him home. Hamilton hit to center and Cross walked to load the bases. Flanagan also drew a pass, sending Ranker home.

Score Four Runs In 7th
Cumberland came up with four more tallies in the 7th by coupling four walks with an infield out, three passed balls and Flanagan's single.

With two down in the 8th, Cox walked, advanced to second on a passed ball and scored on a passed ball after Long was hit for the second time by a pitched ball. Salisbury scored twice in the opening frame on McAllister's triple, G. Pusey's walk and a wild throw to the plate by Hamilton.

Wicomico added another tally in the fourth on Leitch's walk, an error by Cox and Adkins' sacrifice fly. Corbett belted a three-run homer in the 7th and an error by Ranker and Corbett's single gave the Eastern Shore team its final marker in the bottom of the 9th.

Ed Greene, the first of four Salisbury pitchers, was tagged with the loss. He was belted out in the second inning and was followed to the hillock by Adkins, G. Pusey and Massey, Wicomico hurlers issued 13 bases on balls.

McAllister, G. Pusey and Corbett shared six of Salisbury's eight hits.

Salisbury reached the finals in the four-day tournament by beating Essex by the score of 7-0 in the only game played Saturday, Cap 4th State Title.

This is the fourth time Fort Cumberland Post has won the state championship. The 1933, 1934 and 1935 teams captured state honors and the 1934 team won the national championship at Chicago.

Birds Sweep Three-Game Series With Angels, 7-2

Roberts Wins 7th;
Williams, Adair
Bat In Five Runs

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Robin Roberts completed the Baltimore Orioles' three-game sweep of the faltering Los Angeles Angels Sunday with a five-hit, 7-2 victory.

Two opposite-field triples by right-handed hitters Jerry Adair and Dick Williams drove in five of the runs. Adair's triple off losing pitcher Eli Grba scored two runs in the fifth inning to erase the Angels' 2-1 lead. With two out, Hobbie Landtrich and Roberts singled and Adair then hit a high fly which right fielder Lee Thomas barely missed catching.

Williams, pinch-hitting in the eighth inning, hit the same type of triple as Adair to clear the bases and give the Orioles a 6-2 lead. Ron Hansen followed with an other right-field blow, a double, to complete Baltimore's scoring.

The Angels, who are 4-7 on their current road trip, had broken a 1-1 tie in the fourth inning on Lee Thomas' RBI single. In the second inning Brooks Robinson hit his 18th home run for the first Oriole run and little Albie Pearson led off the game with his fourth home run for the Angels.

Roberts, a 35-year-old right-hander, struck out four and walked one in gaining his seventh victory. He lowered his ERA to 2.48.

The victory put the fourth-place Orioles 3 1/2 games behind the Angels and four games over the .500 mark.

A mysterious and almost complete collapse of Ralston's service, with attendant deterioration of the rest of his game, brought Uncle Sam to the verge of elimination for the first time in its own zone.

The gangling 20-year-old University of Southern California student from Bakersfield, Calif., served a total of 18 double-faults—14 in the first two sets—and lost his service six times.

The last two came in the fifth set and resulted in the Americans' loss after a tropical rainstorm had delayed play in the fourth set for 2 1/2 hours. His 18th double-fault came at game point in the seventh game.

Mexico now is in a position to clinch the title Monday in the final two singles matches in which Osuna plays Jon Douglas of Santa Monica, Calif., former Stanford University quarterback, and McKinley opposes Palalox.

The golf course and pro shop at the Cumberland Country Club will be closed today to allow cleanup operations following the "twister" of Saturday which uprooted or damaged approximately 100 trees on the Christie Road course.

The storm damage also has brought about cancellation of the women's golf match scheduled here Tuesday between teams of the North Fork Country Club of Johnstown, Pa

Frostburg's Merchants upped their lead to 1 1/2 games in the Pen-Mar Baseball League penant race by downing Barreille 3-2 yesterday while Lonaconing was upsetting the Grantsville Sluggers to the tune of 11-5.

Mt. Savage's Old Germans tied Barreille for third place by downing the Hyndman Merchants 7-5.

Frostburg swept its four-game season series with Barreille by winning yesterday's game. The scores of the three previous games were 5-4, 5-2 and 10-9.

Peace Wins Eighth

Ralph Peace went the distance for the Mountain City team, limited the Old Exports to five singles and notched his eighth victory against three losses. Three of Barreille's hits were credited to "Tojo" Emerick, who also featured afield with a one-handed running catch of Gene Zumpano's long drive to right field. Peace yielded two runs in the first inning and put the visitors on a goose egg diet the remainder of the game.

Pat Folk started on the mound and gave up three runs in the first two innings before Bobby Raines came on and blanked the Merchants over the last six innings.

Dick Pitko's triple was the game's only extra base hit. Jim Willetts and Gary Keedy shared four of Frostburg's nine safeties.

Joins Senators Today

It was announced last night that Allan Eisel, Frostburg outfielder, will go to Washington today with Scout Mel Nee and will work out with the Senators today and Tuesday. Eisel, Beall High School athlete, recently received a scholarship to Washington (Md.) College.

Ellie Fazanbaker met the route for Lonaconing to tame Grantsville and square up the season series between the teams at two wins each.

Lonaconing pounded the offerings of Robert "Lefty" Keister and George Lauder for 19 hits with Todd Cuthbertson, Everett Spiker and Hank Winner sparking the attack with three blows each. Winner blasted a double and two singles and Jerry Lancaster collected a three-bagger and double.

Eight of Lonaconing's hits came in the fourth frame when the home team scored six runs.

Jimmy Keister headed the Grantsville stickers with a triple, double and single while Junior Perry rapped a pair of two-baggers and McGowan had two singles.

The loss was the third for Keister against six victories.

Dickel Puts Out Fire

Lefty Wayne Johnson, aided by Ralph Dickel, veteran right-hander, who came on in the eighth to put down a late uprising, notched his eighth win of the campaign in Mt. Savage's triumph at Hyndman.

The Old Exports racked up 10 hits with Bobby Green, Ron Winner, Kenny Johnson and Ted Femi accounted for two blows each. Winner rapped a three-bagger while Johnson and Femi had doubles.

Fay Offen, Mt. Savage center-fielder, turned in the fielding gem when he snared Cliff Clites' long drive near the fence.

Johnson and Dickel struck out eight while Sam Glatfelter, the loser, and Jim Norris whiffed five.

Lehman Belts Homer

Gary Lehman of Hyndman hit an inside-the-park homer with one aboard. Lou Hite garnered a double and single and Pete Derringer had a pair of one-base knocks.

In addition to Grantsville's win over Hyndman, Barreille blanked Flinstone, 3-0, and Mt. Savage topped Lonaconing, 9-3 in Saturday contests.

White Sox Beat Yanks In 13-Inning Game, 3-2

Hershberger's Blow Gives Juan Pizarro Decision Over Coates

CHICAGO (AP)—Mike Hershberger's two-out single in the 13th inning chased home an unearned run and gave the Chicago White Sox a 3-2 victory over the New York Yankees Sunday.

Reliever Juan Pizarro singled with two out and continued to second base when centerfielder Jack Reed led the ball roll through his legs. Hershberger then lined a single off Jim Coates, ending the game.

Giants Beat Pirates, 2-1

O'Dell Is Victor Over Bob Friend

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Southpaw Billy O'Dell pitched a five-hitter Sunday and singled in the winning run as the San Francisco Giants beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 2-1.

O'Dell, a left-hander, came up with Felipe Alou on second and two out in the seventh inning.

Billy banged a single to right, scoring Alou, beating right-hander Bob Friend (12-11) and insuring his own 13th victory against 10 setbacks.

O'Dell's blow decided the close pitching duel with Friend, who allowed the Giants 12 hits but kept them well spaced.

Alou also scored the Giants' other run, in the second inning, after beating out the first of his two infield hits. Jimmy Davenport singled Felipe to third and Alou scored as Jose Pagan grounded into a double play.

Oakland Takes Two, Maintains Four Game Lead

Hits Eight Homers, Mt. Storm Bags Pair

Oakland extended its winning streak to six games by winning a doubleheader from Swallow Falls yesterday by scores of 14-5 and 11-8 and maintained its four-game lead in the Town and Country Softball League.

George Stewart (11-1) won the opener and Irving Wolfe (10-1) was the winning pitcher in the nightcap. Oakland collected five homers in the first game and three in the second. Tony Colaw hit three round-trippers, two coming in the second contest.

Mt. Storm copped a pair of extra inning games from White Rock, bagging the first by the score of 11-5 in 11 innings and the second in eight innings to the tune of 5-3. Mt. Storm exploded for seven runs in the 11th frame to annex the opener.

Rich Smith, pitching ace of the Sports Shoppe of the Cumberland Rec League, received credit for both wins, his 13th and 14th of the season. He has lost five games.

Kitzmiller lost the opener of a twin bill to the National Guard, 7-6, but came back to take the second tilt, 9-8.

Fire Prevention Is Theme Of Fair Booths

Association Meets At District 16

The Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association will sponsor a fire protection booth at the Garrett County Fair this week and at the Cumberland Fair August 20-25.

Plans for the booths were discussed yesterday during an association meeting in the District 16 fire hall by Cromwell Zembower, LaVale, chairman of the fire prevention committee.

The booth at the Garrett County Fair which opens tomorrow will feature literature and movies on fire prevention. Fire fighting equipment will be displayed with the price tag attached to remind these who look it over the cost of such equipment.

Each company in that county will stand by this week to assure fire protection during the Fair.

"Sparky The Dog" will be present at the Cumberland Fair, where literature will be distributed.

Premiums Due

Homer Ambrose, secretary of the insurance committee, said the premium on accident policies of the volunteers is due August 25 and each company is asked to send in its payment.

Some 400 volunteers of the two-county association have indicated they are interested in taking out life insurance being sponsored by the group. The association has until September 1 to sign up 200 more volunteers who are needed in the program.

The firemen's training committee reminded the companies that it is time to request fire training classes. Those interested are asked to contact Robert Byrns, director of the Fire Extension Service at the University of Maryland.

Short Course Set

The annual Short Course will be held at College Park September 4-8 and each company is being asked to send a representative.

Thomas Storey, of Clarysville, yesterday was named chairman of the "Fireman of the Year" committee, and will be assisted by Ivan Wilson, Lonaconing and Wade Frazee, Friendsville.

Some 22 companies had representatives and 11 past presidents were present at yesterday's meeting, presided over by Charles Crawford, Bowling Green, president.

Felix Foote, chaplain, opened the meeting and conducted a memorial service for Samuel Brown of Cresaptown, who died recently.

After the meeting a dinner was served by the Ladies Auxiliary of District 16. The next regular meeting will be held September 9 at McCoolle.

Army Cancels Fair Exhibit

A large Army display scheduled for the Great Cumberland Fair August 20-24 has been canceled, apparently because of a misunderstanding about space requirements.

The U.S. Army Exhibit Unit at Cameron Station, Alexandria, Va., reported yesterday that its "Heritage of Progress" exhibit will not appear at the Fair as scheduled.

A spokesman for the Cumberland Fair Association said there had been a misunderstanding. A space of about 40 inches had been allotted for the Army, but the Heritage exhibit takes about 40 feet.

He said he understood there would be some kind of Army exhibit to take its place, and that local military reserve units also plan exhibits.

Chambers Heads Improvement Unit In Potomac Park

William C. Chambers will be installed as new chairman of the Potomac Park Civic Improvement Association tonight at the group's monthly meeting in the basement of the Potomac Park Evangelical United Brethren Church.

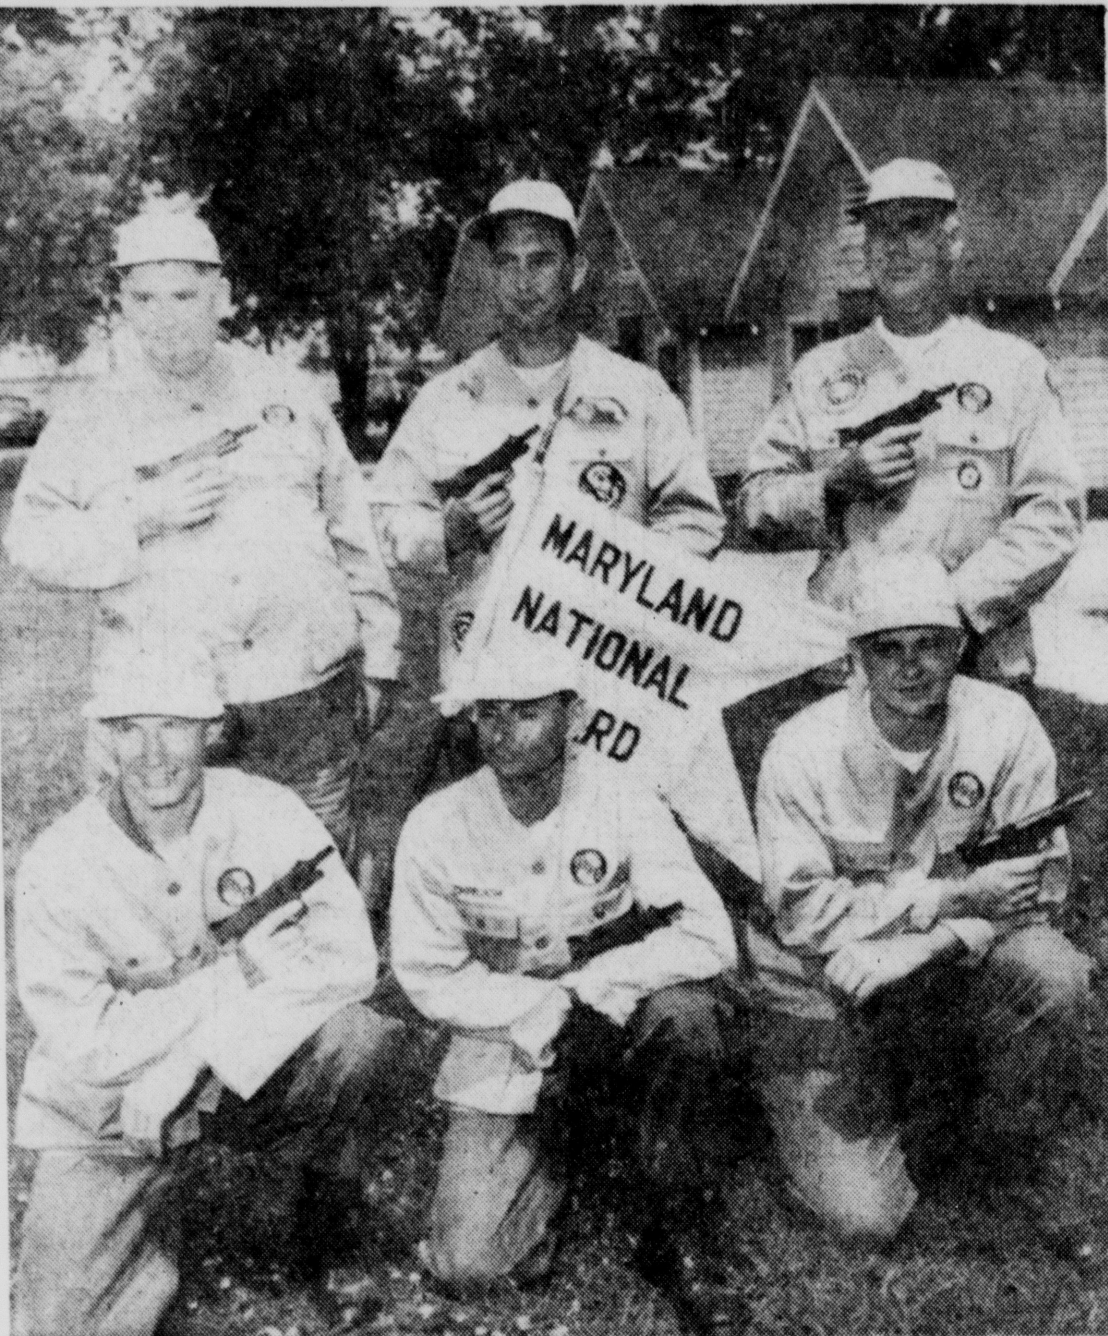

Other officers are Kenneth L. Sheets, secretary, and Harold C. Turner, treasurer. Other members of the board are Elmer C. Rexrode and Melvin Dean. Only Mr. Turner and Mr. Dean have been on the board before.

Mr. Chambers stressed last night that the new board hopes to continue a policy of having monthly meetings. This board has the responsibility for determining the amount needed for street lights in the community and recommending the desired supplemental levy to be adopted by the Board of County Commissioners. The rate for the current year is eight cents on each $100 of assessable property.

Traffic Club To Hold Picnic

The Tri-State Traffic Club will hold its annual picnic Wednesday at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club picnic grounds, according to C. E. Moody, president.

The dinner will be buffet style, and arrangements for the event are being handled by William Bruce and Joseph Snyder.

O'Connor Backs Tawes' Record On Highways

BALTIMORE (AP) — The campaign chairman for Gov. Tawes counterattacked Sunday in a Democratic - Republican debate on Maryland's highway program.

GOP gubernatorial candidate Frank Small Jr. had charged in a speech at Easton Saturday that the state's road-building program is "stalled in the mire of poor administration."

Herbert R. O'Connor Jr., the governor's campaign chairman, called Small's criticism "laughable" and said it represented "so much back-fence small talk."

The Tawes spokesman said the incumbent regime inherited a chaotic highway program from the previous Republican administration and converted it into one of Tawes' greatest accomplishments.

"Perhaps in no area of government can the Tawes administration point with more pride than in the field of highway construction," O'Connor said in a statement.

The Democratic campaign manager cited the Baltimore Beltway, which was opened to traffic last month, and the Northeast Expressway, which now is under construction.

O'Connor said segments of the Capital Beltway around Washington will be opened this fall. Additional legs will go into operation next year, and the entire highway will be completed by 1964, he said.

"On the Eastern Shore," said O'Connor, "and in the very county where Small made his anti-highway speech, the accomplishments of the Tawes administration are there for all to see."

He said U.S. 50 is now a dual-lane highway to south of Easton and will be dualized to Cambridge by next month.

"Talbot County never had an inch of dual highway until Millard Tawes became governor," said O'Connor.

O'Connor also referred to the dualization of U.S. 301 in Southern Maryland. He said this was done by the incumbent administration in Annapolis.

To Present Talks

Harry Kaufman and Joseph Gratton will present classification talks at the weekly meeting of the Cumberland Rotary Club tomorrow at 12:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

CUF LEADER — William H. O'Brien, Vice president of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company, has accepted appointment as assistant to the general chairman for the 1962 County United Fund Campaign. He was appointed by Alvin H. Wilson, general campaign chairman.

Car Wrecks Front Porch; Nobody Hurt

Extensive property damage was caused last Saturday night when an auto went out of control while descending Oak View Drive in Westernport and rammed into a double frame dwelling. No one was reported injured.

The front porches of the double house were torn out and the roof fell onto the car, which was driven by James Hawk of 504 Maryland Avenue.

The fuse box on the house was knocked out and the dwellings were plunged into darkness. Some of the front windows were shattered.

The two homes are occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Orvel Kazlo and Mr. and Mrs. George Fisher.

In the car with Hawk was a companion named Duckworth. The vehicle was descending the steep grade and as it rounded a sharp curve it skidded on the wet road and careened into the dwelling.

Charges Filed In Accidents

A local man will be given a hearing Friday afternoon in connection with two accidents Saturday night, police said.

Joseph G. Madden, 32, of North Centre Street, was the operator of a car which hit a car in LaVale about 9:40 p. m. Charges of leaving the scene of an accident and failure to keep to the right were filed by Tfc. Bernard J. Chabot.

At 10:45 p. m. Madden was traveling into Cumberland on U.S. Route 40 at the Narrows when he hit the stone wall, careened into a car coming in the opposite direction and continued into a guard rail.

Failure to keep to the right and another motor vehicle charge were placed against him by Trooper Richard Alderton.

Nobody was hurt in either accident.

City Employees Are Busy With Storm Cleanup

Extensive Damage Is Caused Here

A drenching rain soaked Cumberland yesterday afternoon, but it was just a quiet summer shower in comparison to the severe hailstorm with gale winds which uprooted trees, blew down branches, flooded basements and subways and knocked out power lines on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, said it will take about three days to clean up the aftermath of the storm which moved into Cumberland about 5 p. m. Saturday.

Today all employees of the street department except the sewer crew will be assigned to the task of cleaning up the uprooted trees and broken branches which blocked traffic on some streets.

City employees worked until about 11 p. m. Saturday to clear up the worst of the storm damage, and branches were placed alongside pavements in order that traffic might move normally.

City Park Damaged

At least five trees and a flagpole were felled in Constitution Park, according to Mrs. Roeder, who said workmen will get to that as soon as possible. The main concern at the moment is to get the city streets cleared of tree branches and debris.

Brinker Run between Fourth Street and Franks Lane posed a real problem for workmen who attempted to open up the stream of water clogged by tree branches and hedge trimmings tossed into it recently by those living in that area. Mrs. Roeder is concerned with the problem and asks that residents refrain from tossing the trimmings into the run.

A tree measuring about four feet at the base was uprooted beside the residence of John Shober, 443 North Mechanic Street, and fell across his car parked nearby. Telephone and electric lines were torn down by the tree. Quite a few other trees were felled in various sections of the city.

Gravel and debris washed down on city streets and in some spots it was so bad the Street Department payloaders were put into service immediately after the storm passed.

Washington Street which is lined with trees was hard hit by the impact of the storm. Fayette Street was blocked by a number of large limbs which fell from trees. Chase Street between Fayette and Washington was blocked for a while.

Basements were flooded as were the subways at Virginia Avenue, Winewood Street and Greene Street.

Edward L. Ewald, district manager of the Potomac Edison Company, said last night that power disruption in sections of Cumberland was restored early yesterday morning.

Most of the power failure brought on by the storm was in the West Side, Mapleside, Johnson Heights, and Oldtown Road areas.

Later in the evening when another storm hit the area there was a disruption of power in the vicinity of Bowling Green and Patterson Creek.

Some power trouble was also reported in the Ellerslie area following yesterday's storm.

ANNABELLE LEATHERMAN

JAMES T. KING JR.

Physical Education, Math Teachers Are Appointed

Richard T. Rizer, assistant superintendent of schools, announces the appointment of two teachers for the coming school term.

Miss Annabelle Leatherman, 107 Springdale Street, has been assigned to Oldtown High School as physical education teacher and to teach junior high school subjects. She replaces Miss Jeanette Hicks who resigned at the end of the school term.

Miss Leatherman has been serving at Awanney Girls Camp, Brandon Vt., since June 26. A Fort Hill High School graduate in 1954, she attended Frostburg State Teachers College for one year, later attended Potomac State College and Community College at Frederick. For the past two years she has studied at the University of Maryland, graduating this year with a BS degree in physical education. She has two years teaching experience, one year at Hyndman School and the other at West Frederick Junior High School, Frederick.

James T. King Jr., of 4 Homestead Avenue, has been appointed to a teaching position at Bruce High School in the field of mathematics. He replaces Robert Thomas, who has been transferred to Allegany High School in the position made vacant by the resignation of Daniel Evans at the close of the school term.

Mr. King is a 1953 graduate of LaSalle, attended Potomac State College, 1958-59, and graduated from Frostburg State Teachers College in 1961. He taught mathematics last year at Lingamore Junior and Senior High School, Frederick.

Boy, 14, Missing

A 14-year-old Bowman's Addition boy, who completed part of his newspaper route yesterday morning and left the remainder of the papers on the porch of one of his customers, is reported missing from his home.

William H. Davis, who has been living with guardians since the death of his mother some time ago, was last seen walking down a road in Bowman's Addition.

There was no foul play involved in his disappearance, according to State Police, who said the youth left some of the newspapers and his coat on the porch of the Timbrook dwelling in Bowman's Addition.

Police, who received a call about noon, reported the youth was apparently getting along on good terms with his guardians who had taken him to the movies on Saturday night.

Trooper Roger Reynolds made an initial investigation and late last night authorities were on the lookout for the youth.

Hail Damages Area Orchards, Farm Crops

Plants Stripped, Fruit Ruined

Orchardists and truck farmers of the district took inventory yesterday in the wake of Saturday's severe hailstorm and learned their advanced crops were heavily damaged.

One of the hardest hit was Delbert Knippenberg, Irons Mountain, whose apple and peach trees, peppers, tomatoes and cucumbers were practically ruined.

A crop of his oats about ready for harvest was beaten to the ground and his corn crop is now nothing but stalks and ears.

His tomato vines were stripped by hailstones "as large as hen eggs" which pelted his crops for about half an hour. His farm buildings also bore the brunt of the summer's worst storm in this district.

Theodore Stegmaier, of Christie Road, said that at one of his small apple orchards on Williams Road about 75 per cent of the fruit had severe damage.

His apple orchard on Christie Road suffered about 20 per cent severe damage, and peaches in that same area suffered about 50 per cent damage and apparently are no longer A-1 fruit.

His peaches and tomatoes growing on Collier Mountain were untouched by the severe hail storm which moved into Cumberland about 5 p. m. Saturday.

Mt. Stegmaier said his brother, Richard Stegmaier, Evitts Creek, reported that his tomato crop was damaged severely.

Consolidated Orchards on Irons Mountain reported its peaches were marked and damaged by the pelting hail.

2 Companies Called To Fire

Two local fire companies yesterday responded to a fire which damaged two mattresses and caused extensive smoke in an upstairs bedroom at 440 Baltimore Avenue.

East Side was called first when Box 52 was pulled. Central went to the scene shortly afterwards.

Firemen said children apparently started the fire which damaged the mattresses in the home, owned by Guy Propst of Baltimore Pike and occupied by John Hyson.

Firemen, who received the call at 10:07 a. m., tossed the smoldering mattresses out a window in the upstairs rear bedroom.
